A Word about Saving Money . . .

As you probably know from experience, it's not easy to save money. Saving money is a big problem to nearly everyone.

Let's talk about one unique way to save - putting your money into cash value life insurance. Cash value life insurance is the kind of life insurance that does two primary things: (1) It immediately sets up an amount of money that will be paid to someone you choose if you should die too soon, and (2) it builds up a cash savings that grows larger as time passes.

Life Insurance does many things. You may have some friends of theirs who are retired and living comfortably on income from life insurance policies. Or perhaps you know someone who used his life insurance cash value for an emergency need.

Maybe you think it's a little early to bother knowing about life insurance when you are so young and may not be earning enough to buy a policy like your dad's or your mother's. Really, though, it's never too early to learn about life insurance - because someday soon you'll earn money and want to save some for future use.

Anytime you want to know more about life insurance, how it works and what it can do, I'll be happy to explain it all to you, and there's never any obligation.

THE MALLARD STAFF

We worked so hard 'til the Mallard was done.
We labored and toiled in spite of our fun.
We fought and we argued and now that we're through,
Here's the '64 Mallard, we give it to you!
