The Time is Now

The Fourth Dimension

You are entering a new dimension, a dimension of sight and sound, a dimension where.....where you probably don't have a clue as to what we are talking about, right? Now really, try to guess the theme of this year's book. Let's see, there's a clock on the cover, and it's called the Fourth Dimension; it wouldn't have anything to do with time, would it? Hey, what do you know, you guessed it! Now you're probably saying why the fourth dimension? (In case you didn't know, that's the measure of time.) Well, the lines of the first dimension were too boring, the two-dimensional shapes were too flat, and we still felt a little constricted with 3-D images as well. However, the fourth dimension had no bounds, and we liked that. We felt that it perfectly mirrored the feelings of everyone this year. We had broken many barriers and yet stayed within the realm of one: the inevitable time. The time was finally right for some big improvements: new paint was seen in the halls and many classrooms, a student news show was created, a girls softball team started, and students even joined together to fight crime.

Throughout these occurences time seemed to stand still, while passing very swiftly, just as if we had entered a time machine. H.G.Wells, in his novel the Time Machine, could only dream of traveling back in time, but we have given you the opportunity to really do it, so climb aboard into our time machine, and find out the great and strange power time had on us. The year seemed to pass by so quickly that the only thing you ever heard was, "Ugh! I don't have enough time!", and then oddly enough time seemed ot go on for an eternity when we were waiting for that bell to ring each day. All in all, it is probably safe to say that the amount of time we have is always extremely special to us. However, the time we have given in high school to friends, learning, and unlimited heart felt memories will always have an extra special place in our hearts.

Now before we get too mushy, we will move on through the fourth dimension, and perhaps even further.

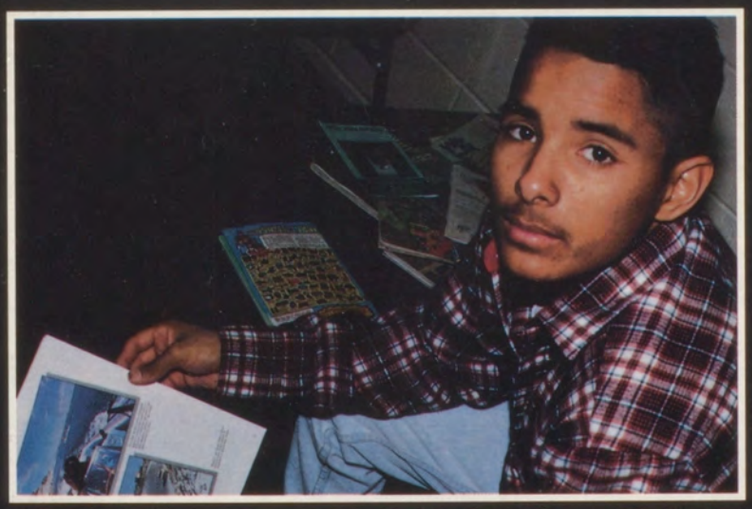

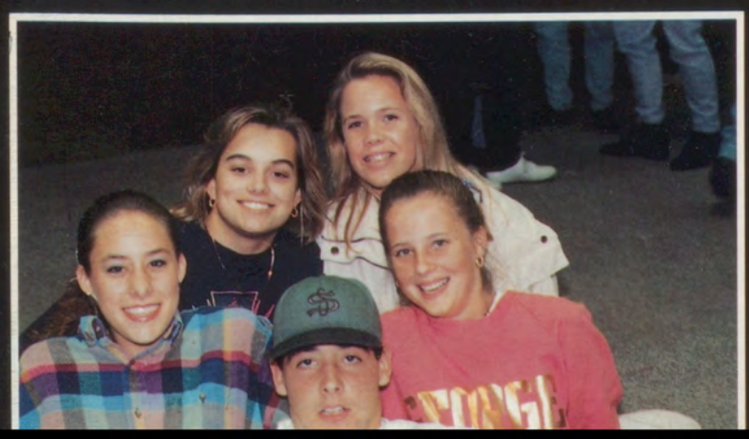

OBSESSIONS

Hello!? Are you there? Hello? Oh! We didn't know anyone actually reads this stuff! Since we finally have your attention, let us now take a walk down memory lane. Buckle your seatbelts and hold on tight, 'cause we're gonna take you on an EXTREMELY wild ride!!

As we jetted down the busy halls of Taylor High we noticed the individuality within each of us. By taking our own uniqueness to the EXTREME, we expressed our different interests.

From hobbies and collections to hair styles and clothes, we all vividly demonstrated our wild and crazy obsessions. These obsessions brought out the originality in each of us. Without our obsessions, life would be plain, extremely boring, and dull. Obsessions gave us something to do in our spare time, and they are what kept us going during all those tough times.

We were drawn away from our day to day stressful routine by our obsessions. We were more likely to participate in various activities because our obsessions inspired us. Sometimes these obsessions may have included group activities. We, along with our friends, often shared the same EXTREME originality. These times, certainly memorable, will stay with us forever. If our obsessions were nonexistent, where would we be?

Even though we will grow older and wiser and everything will change, our obsessions will always be significant to us. WOW!. . .what a ride!

HOMECOMING

Homecoming 1993 started off with a great deal of spirit. Although we were told there would not be a spirit walk the student body still kept their enthusiam. This year SURF did a little something new by sponsoring what they hope will become the traditional Homecoming Dance. It was a formal type of dance, but this was also the place where the nominees were announced. Everyone waited anxiously as the names were called. Homecoming nominees were as follows: Angie Moldenhour, Stephanie MaCuk, Laura MaCuk, Mimi Garcia, Tammy Stiles, Christi Schneider, and Kimberly Schaefer.

The spirit week for Homecoming, sponsored by the cheerleaders, was a great success. The day that everybody had waited for throughout the week filled with spirit arrived. "HOMECOMING DAY!" Silly skits and spirit filled the gym as the cheerleaders, football players, High Steppers, twirlers, and the band performed for the student body during the Homecoming pep rally.

Finally, the Homecoming game had arrived. The stands were packed, and it was time to announce the Homecoming Queen for 1993. It was Mimi Garcia! The princesses were Christi Schneider and Kimberly Schaefer. Although the Ducks lost the game Homecoming night, we will always feel in our hearts that we have the school spirit and power to always be WINNERS. AGAIN IN 1993, HOMECOMING WAS A GREAT SUCCESS.

◄ Oh come on Mrs. Miller. Why would you tell people to sit down at a pep rally? Get into the spirit.

SENIORS

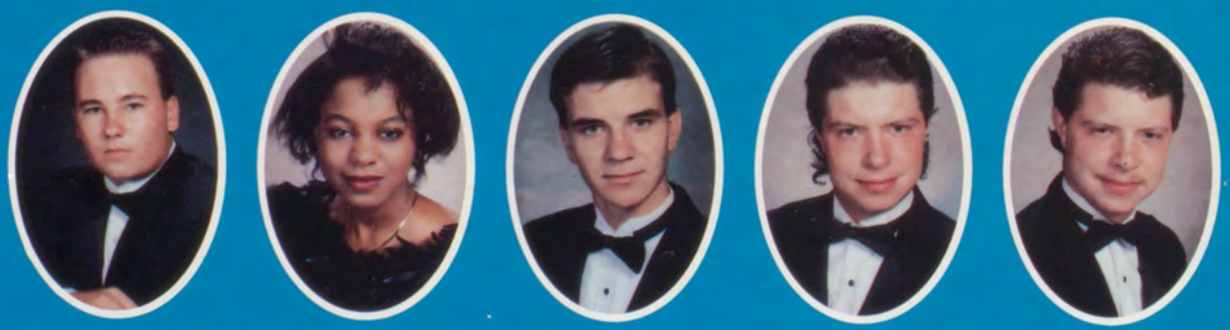

I can't believe we're finally seniors! It seems like we got here only yesterday." Yes, this does sound like the exact same senior expression you'd find in any yearbook, but until you are a senior you never really appreciate the scary truth of those words. Our senior year was different from anything we'd ever experienced before. We realized that not only our senior year was going to be our high school graduation but our final training course for the real world as well. As seniors, we did face many of the norms that come with the package: final SAT scores, college applications, taking senior pictures, scholarship hunts, and dealing with graduation invitations. However, we also made time for friends and fun, and above all, to dream. We dreamt of all that the future would hold for us, and all that we knew we could make of ourselves. The sky's the limit, but we want so much more.

With these ambitions we set off to make the best of our senior year, together. Being together was the most important part. We had been together for more than twelve long years, and faced many challenges with each other's help. It scared us to think that now we would be going out on our own; either to school, work, the service, or who knows what. However, all fears were washed away as we realized that our friends and Taylor High School would remain in our hearts forever. With that thought in mind, we were ready to step out of our secure little nest and into the bright light of the future. The seniors of 1994 were going out to take the world by storm!!!

WHAT A PAL

WHAT A BUDDY

What is the one thing that all of us need to help us make life more meaningful? Everyone has a basic need to have someone to share experiences with, tell secrets to, or just spend quiet time with. And as the year went by, we managed to encounter old friends or make new ones who would stick by us through both good and bad times. These people were extremely important to us because they made us laugh, and they were there when we felt like no one else was interested in what was going on in our world.

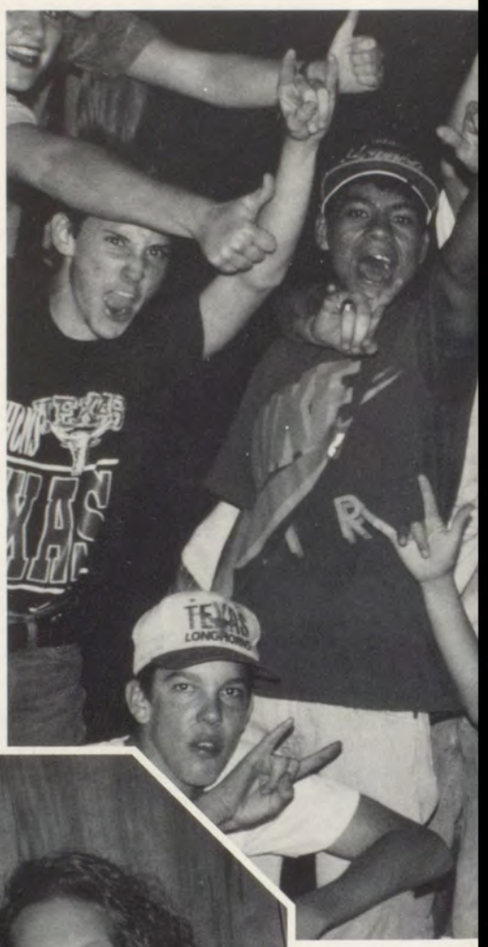

As we started our journey through Taylor High School, watching the different groups, we walked through the halls, and heard many different conversations, but all of them seemed to have one thing in common. They all seemed to be taking place among friends. Everyone seemed to have something exciting to share with a loyal, trustworthy pal.

Friends continue to be a part of all of our lives; something that we all need. It is a great feeling to look back and see that our most memorable moments were spent with comrades. Through our friends we shared special memories of times spent at football games, basketball games, volleyball games, dances, and other activities. There was a special bond that would always unite us.

Of course, we couldn't always be together, but the times we were not with our friends, they were always in our hearts. We think we all can agree that you can't have fun without your buddies.

Throughout any exhilarating moment, who was there with you? Who was there when you cheered or kicked during one of Taylor's most exciting games? Who was there during Taylor's most heart warming Homecoming game? Remember, you can keep smiling, keep shining, knowing that you can always count on your friends, for sure, because face it, YOU JUST NEED FRIENDS.

We have one last question. Who was there when you needed someone? Friends. Remember what a pal, what a buddy, WHAT A FRIEND.

EXTREMES

Often as students we became so wrapped up in our busy day-to-day schedules that we grew tired of hearing the alarm clock buzzing or our parents yelling, "Wake-up!! It's time to go to school." Despite the agony of a new day, we rushed out the door to make it to school on time. We arrived at the student center and found our friends waiting and suddenly the day did not seem as bad. Then, we got to our first period class and remembered we had a test. Soon we found that one hectic day had finished as the 3:15 bell rang. We wanted to go home and relax. Not!! It's party time!! We were fed up with the daily pressure and all we wanted to do was let our hair down and get crazy! Whether we were snow skiing, bull riding, screaming from the top of a rollercoaster, skateboarding, or plain getting crazy with some friends, we always had fun. Who said Taylor was boring? We proved them wrong, didn't we? By showing our favorite past times and outrageous acts, we revealed how wild, crazy, and different Taylor High School can be. Yeah, sometimes we looked ridiculous, but we always got a good laugh and a memory that would last a lifetime. So after a hectic day, blow your troubles away and go to the extreme.

PETS

Many students at Taylor High School own pets. These fuzzy, furry, sometimes slimy creatures are owned by the majority of students here at THS. These pets range from exotic emus to the simple, everyday house dog. Pets are a very important aspect of many students' lives and bring enjoyment to everyone. In our survey, dogs proved to be the true "man's best friend." Cats placed second in our school poll. Birds, snakes, and cows rounded out the rest of the favorite pets. These pets play a big role in many students lives at THS also. They often help students release emotions and anxieties they might get from being stressed after a full day of school. As we all know, after a grueling school day, sometimes we desperately need someone with whom to talk to. A pet often fills that role and makes the person feel better. Pets truly play an extremely huge role in many students lives here at Taylor High School. We think pets provide years of enjoyment, and everyone here at THS should own one.

Although pets can sometimes be a nuisance, the investment in one is well worth it. Purchasing a pet would be one of the most important choices that a person could make if he wants to be provided with a lifetime of entertainment.

Juniors 1995

As we anticipated our junior year, we were told by people who had lived through it that the year would be a breeze! Undoubtedly, they were either still numb from over work/over stress or old- timers disease had already affected their brains because that was definitely wrong! Throughout our junior year, our friendships grew, our worries for college grew, and classes became more difficult. It was interesting to see that we really could adjust to all the challenges we had to face. Some of these involved physical labor, some involved mental labor, and some were just plain stressful. Challenges we faced were: raising enough money for the Senior prom, passing the T.A.A.S. exit level test, and getting ready for our S.A.T. tests. Next, our junior research papers came along; now that was a challenge above challenges to achieve. As we prepared to make our junior year one of the best and most unforgetable ones, we had to surpass the fear of challenges, and we did it!

SPHS 1996

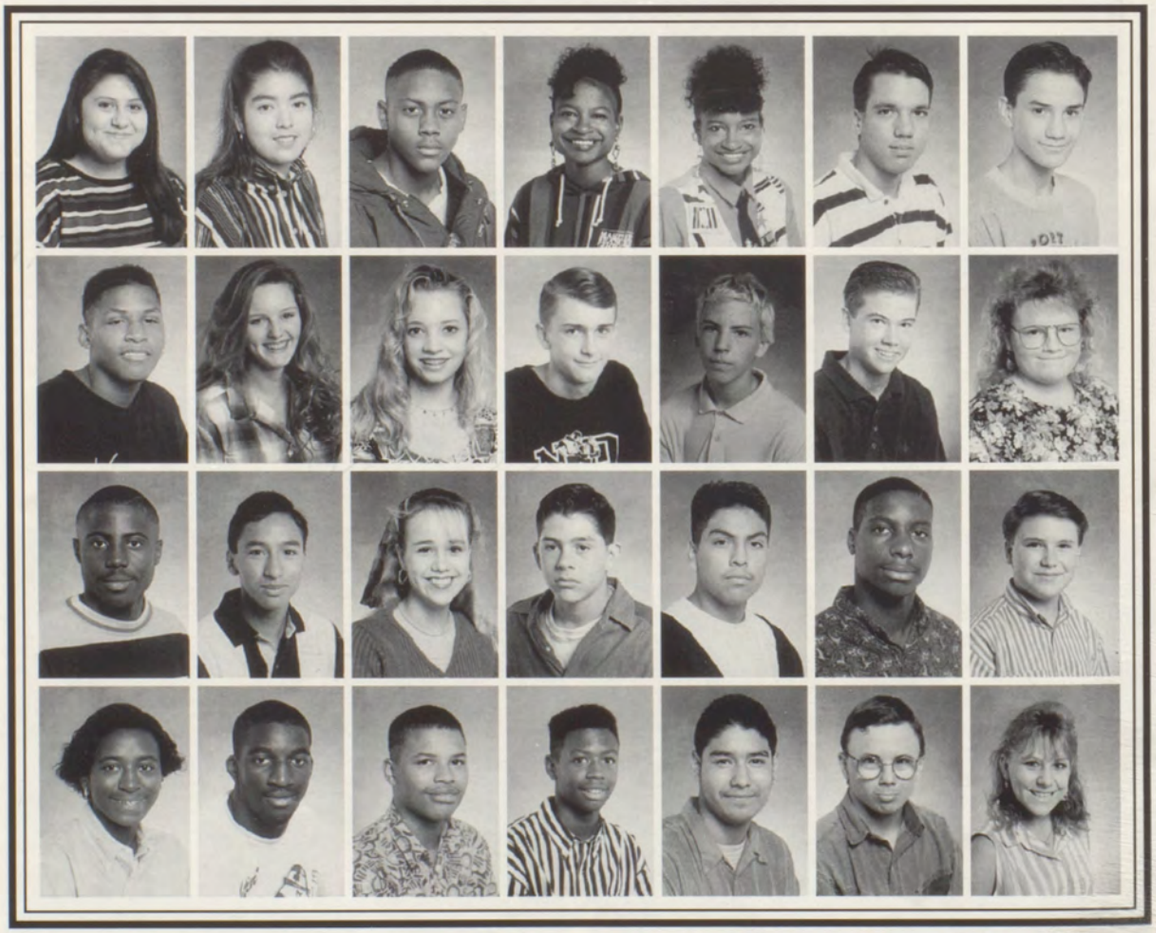

This year was an exciting adventure for the class who was no longer referred to as "Fish". Now the fish have swam into the big sea. Some had received their driver's licenses which let them go where they wanted to. No longer did they have to "bum" rides from everyone whom they thought really didn't mind. Wasn't that a great feeling? A feeling of freedom and independence. A moment in time when we knew we had become older and wiser as time went by. As the year progressed, we shared many special moments with one another. We went places we knew would be full of memories. Remember the cold football games when we cuddled together trying to keep warm? How about the pounding basketball games and the many school activities that never failed to keep us entertained? We were enabled to become more unified as a class and broadened our horizons by participating in some of the activities where we shared feelings of laughter and tears.

Fish 1997

Which way do I go!? Which way do I go!? Where is the cafeteria? Where is the gym? Where is the restroom? Why do I have to take "CI"? Freshman, fish, ninth graders, whatever you wanted to call them, were dazed and confused. When asked, "What do you think of high school?", their eyes would boggle, their heart would palpitate, their hands would get sweaty, and they most likely would not know what to say. Before you know it, they would be sophomores denying their silly freshman life and trying to forget when they were 14 or 15, bumming rides off of the driving-crazed sophomores, worrying about finding their classes, deciding if it was "cool" to try talking to the upper classmen without being laughed at, working on the four year schedule, or being scared of being stuffed in a locker by the junior and senior bullies. No matter what, the claims of memory loss or temporary amnesia would never hide the truth that we were all once in the situation of being a dreaded freshman.

The faculty of Taylor High School. Who were they, and what were they here for? They were and forever will be a group of very special people that not only helped us to learn, but they also helped us to grow into young adults. They were always there for tutoring or to give that little extra time after school to help us through difficult situations we were having in our classes or in our lives outside of school. During exams they did everything they could to help us make it through high school. Some stayed after school or came back up to the school for late night study sessions. The faculty always tried to influence the students to be one big family. We felt honored and proud to have people of their caliber here at Taylor High. People we could learn from but also be friends with. Whenever we felt the need of a friend, most of our teachers offered comfort and a sympathetic ear. Many times we needed our teachers as our friends as well as our educators, and they were always caring and considerate, and this made hard times a little easier for all concerned. Teachers were always there for those of us who needed them and asked for a little help. The teachers not only taught our lessons, but they cared about our lives, hopes and dreams. High school would have been impossible without them.

A New Look for 1994

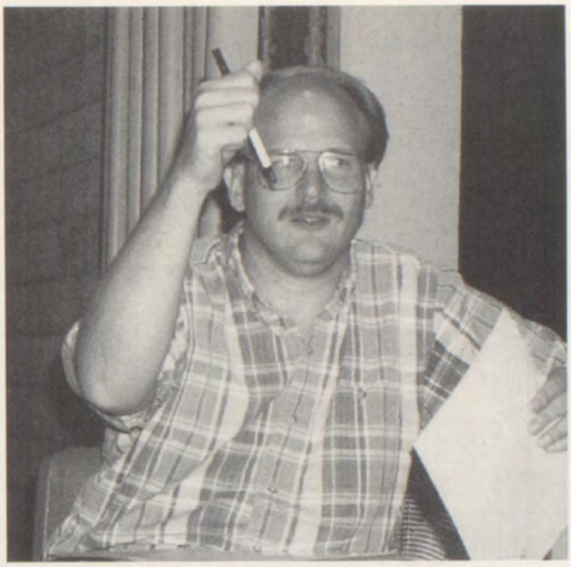

Guess what we got new this year? You got it right! This year Taylor Independent Schools hired a new superintendent Dr. Herman Smith. Dr. Smith was hired after the former superintendent Mr. Caplinger resigned. While we miss Mr. Caplinger and his caring administration, we have great hope for our new superintendent. From his first day Dr. Smith has been making changes to improve Taylor High. He inacted several new programs as well as seeing that the existing programs continued to flow smoothly. Along with the usual responsibilties of superintendent, Dr. Smith has played an active role in the day to day runnings of Taylor High. One of Dr. Smith's new programs was the Superintendent Scholar Progam, which recongized students with outstanding academic records. Dr. Smith has overseen a great deal of changes in Taylor. So far during his administration we have hired a new personnel, added on to Central Office, and rearranged some workings at Taylor High. We are all looking forward to his continued changes and more progress.

Academics

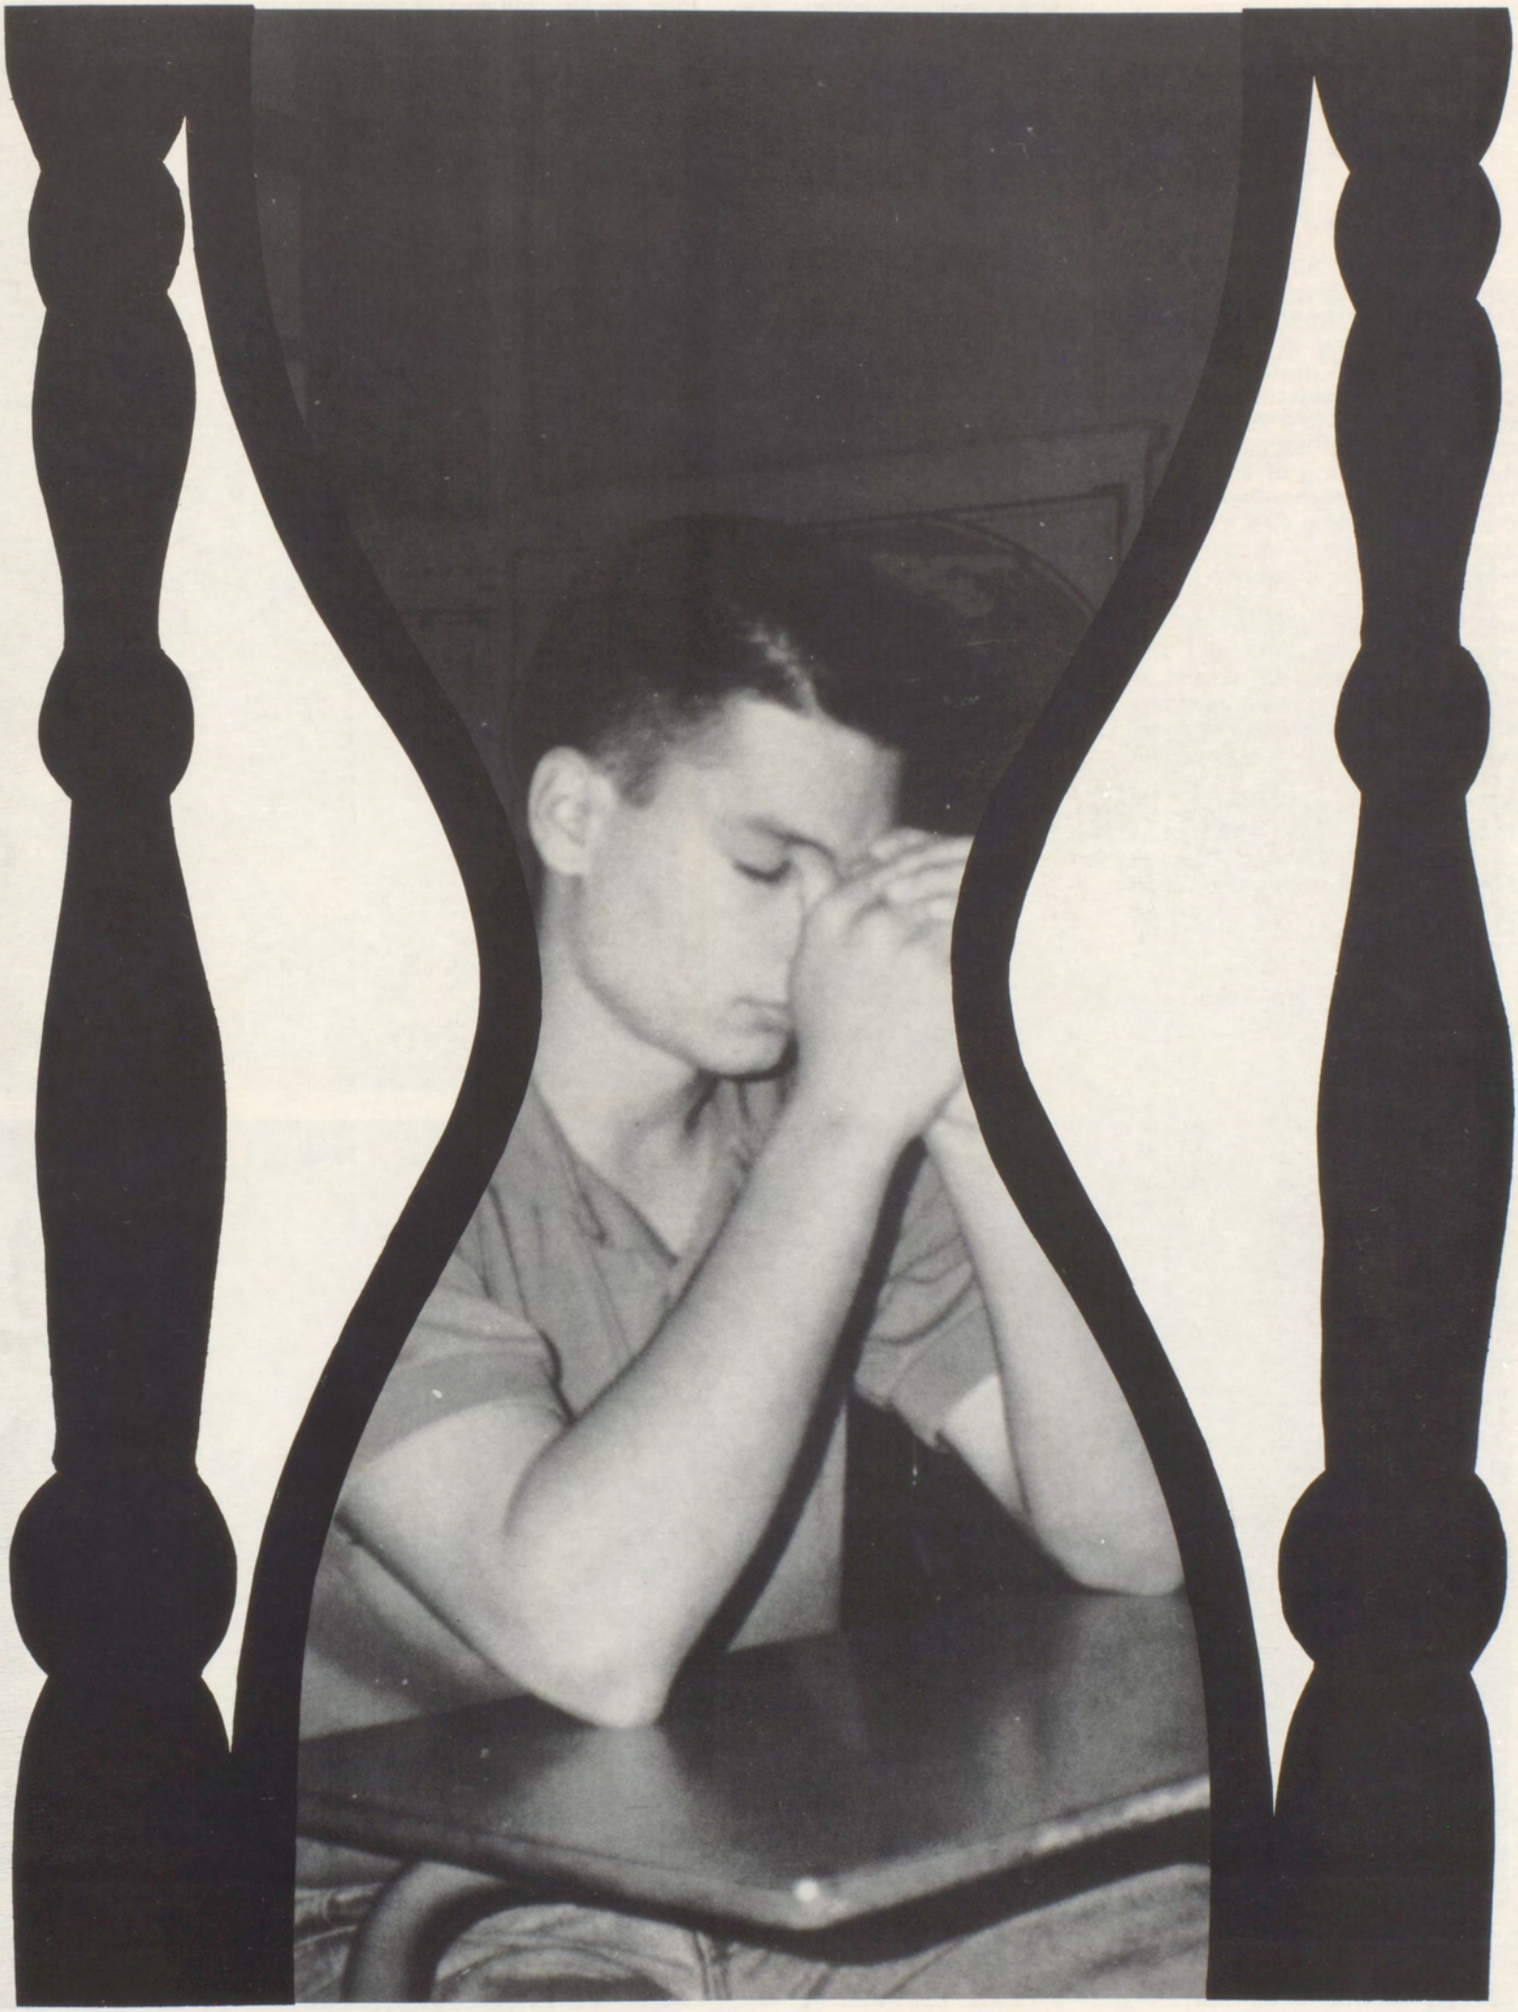

Time Well Spent

ENGLISH

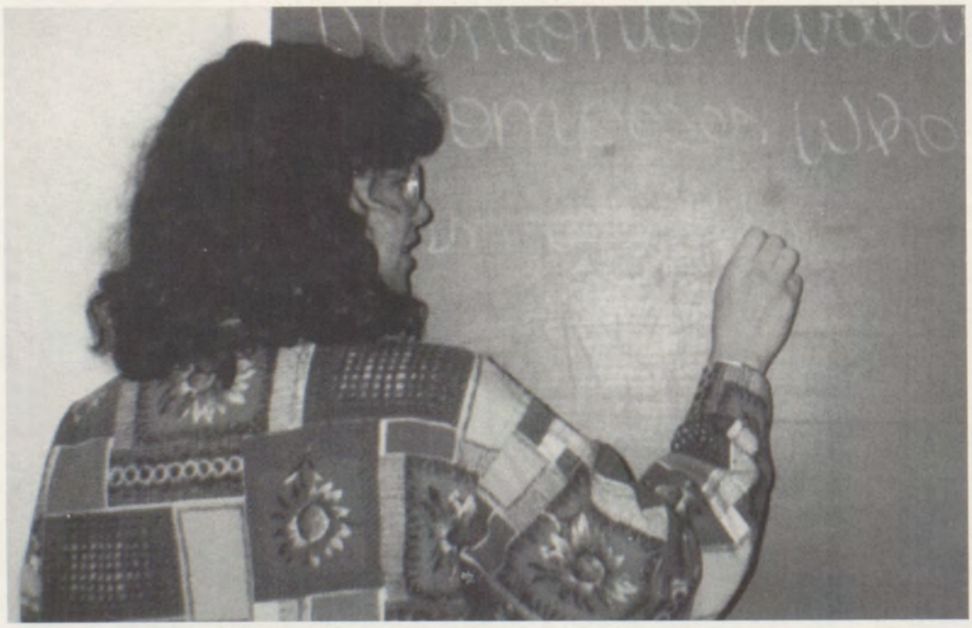

"Romeo and Juliet", A Separate Peace , Cat's Cradle, and Tess of the d'Urbervilles. These were just a few of the literary works studied in our English courses. Along with these, poetry and prose offered a new aspect to the students' learning capacity. When thinking of an English course, one of the first things that came to mind was grammar and correct usage of all those words that were crammed in our heads. However, English had so much more to offer. Hardly any other course required gave students so many choices of studies. English classes were designed to expand our horizons. While some of the materials we covered became tedious, literature opened doors that let the reader escape reality. The tasks of writing compositions and essays were usually met with groans at first; however, once we began, the ideas were built upon and transfered from the mind to the paper, it become easier.

Then came research papers which required us to spend a lot of time both in and out of class. Although only three years of English were required, most students decided that one more year could not possibly harm them. It seems that one can never really get enough or too much of reading and writing.

English classes were important because they gave us a basic understanding. We knew we had to do our best in English. English required a lot of studying and massive use of correct and proper grammar. Many book reports, essays, research papers all played an important role in English. While it was challenging at times, it remains a necessary part of our lives.

Lookin' for a Formula

Math.... All you had to do was say the word and a lot of people ran and hid. For those of us whose better subjects didn't include math, this didn't bring to mind good memories.

We sat in class with a confused look on our faces and hoped that by some miracle we would be able to pass or scrape by for that matter. We spent endless hours doing homework only to be told the majority of them were wrong. Then when we thought about giving up because it seemed like a hopeless cause, something clicked, and it all became clear. With the teacher's dedication and our own determination, we got through it. Not everybody experienced these problems though.

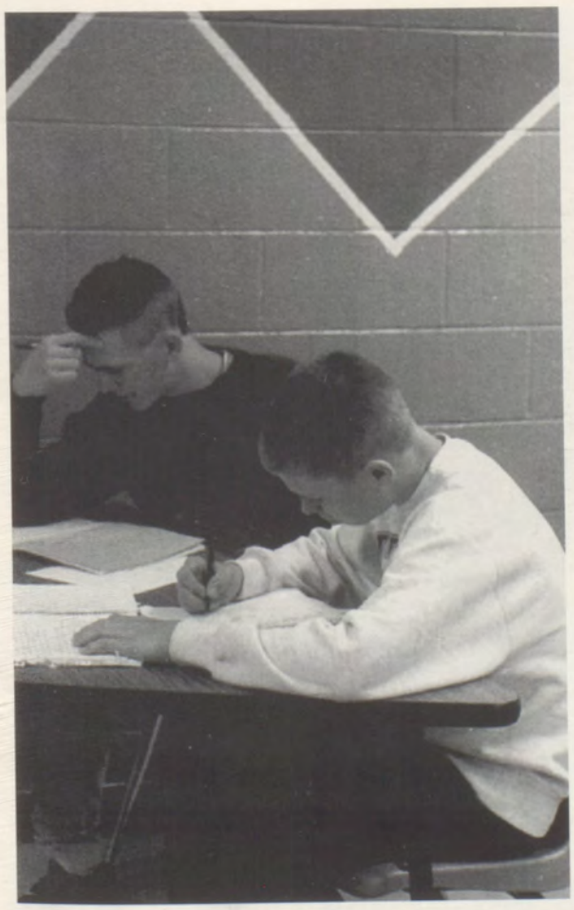

For others, their math classes brought on a welcomed challenge. They came into class with an eagarness to learn, and their hard work helped motivate everyone around them. When they weren't doing their own work, they often helped anyone who needed them. Everyone gained from their hard work and encouragement.

Our math classes meant something different to each of us. For some, it was considered torture. For others, it was just another class we had to take. From pre-algebra to calculus, there was always plenty to choose from.

Even though a lot of us didn't want to believe it, math was in everything we did; it is the backbone of our society. We complained that we would never use any of this in the future, but it was the concepts and problem solving stratagies that gave us the most benefits.

So, when you are sitting there counting your millions, remember you wouldn't have gotten this far without math.

SCIENCE

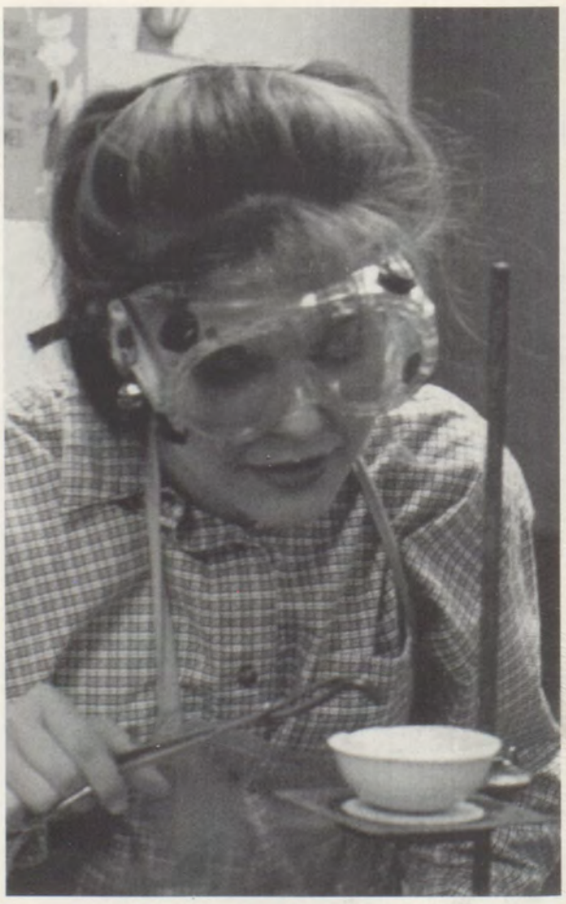

Out of the many fields of study offered here at Taylor High School, science seems to be one of the most challenging and at the same time one of the most interesting. In the fast paced information age that we live in, it is of no surprise that science has become our life-line to a more prosperous future. Science has bcome the air we breathe. Hey, science really has become the air we breathe, literally. Always wanting to be on top of things, Taylor offered a wide variety of science courses for students eager to become the next Albert Einstein or Thomas Edison. From the Jurassic Age to G-forces, our science classes helped us to get a better understanding of it all. While the freshman were dissecting pigs in Biology, upperclassmen were manipulating vectors and scholars in Physics, making formulas and memorizing elements in Chemistry I and II, or even moving their expert anatomy expertise up to Biology II. This course work left students exasperated by the performance in such challenging studies, some course even appeared close to college level. Students had to be committed, but the labs and field trips more than made up for the hard work. Students learned while having fun by also going on field trips to Galveston and to the University of Texas at Austin. Although some of these classes were stressful and mind-boggling, the science department at Taylor High gave a better point of view in the amazing world of science today.

History, A Journey Through Time

History, History, History! Some students wondered about the purpose of about studying wars, presidents and the economy. Social studies students not only studied history and government, but also experienced it. Everyone needs to have some basic knowledge of our country's past. Each person should learn about the past to help them understand today. Even though most of the time history was a challenging course, it was also very rewarding. Most of the work took up a lot of time, but there were many advantages to all that work, like when you get to college. In college you take several history courses of various forms, which you will better understand thanks to the knowledge we recieved in high school. Reading chapters and taking pop quizzes were just a few of the ways we got our work done. Many people chose to exercise their brains by participating in different history events. As students we learned that there was no time for leisure, but plenty of time for hard work. Not studying meant low grades. But whether a student found himself or herself in U.S. History, World History, Government or Economics, there was one thing all social studies classes had in common. No matter how busy any class got or how many worksheets there were to complete, it always seemed that there was never enough time to learn about every little event in history. Thanks to Mr. Pool, Mr. Crow, Coach Cole, Mr. Terrazas, Mr. Muniz, and Ms.Kennedy for making all those years in their classes as educational and as fun as they were, and thanks for the fantastic job you did in teaching us.

Who's Who in Electives

While it was difficult to select one student to represent the Fine Arts department at THS, it was not difficult to understand why Vanessa Mokry was selected. She demonstrated her creative abilities in almost everything she has done. In addition to her display of acting ability in all the high school theatre productions over the past four years, she was one of the key people who developed K-DUC productions.

-Dan Volek

Laura Hewtty was chosen as the outstanding Business student because of her involvement in all of the business classes offered at THS. In addition to taking Business Law and Accounting I and II, Laura also took two vocational courses.

-Pat Rogers

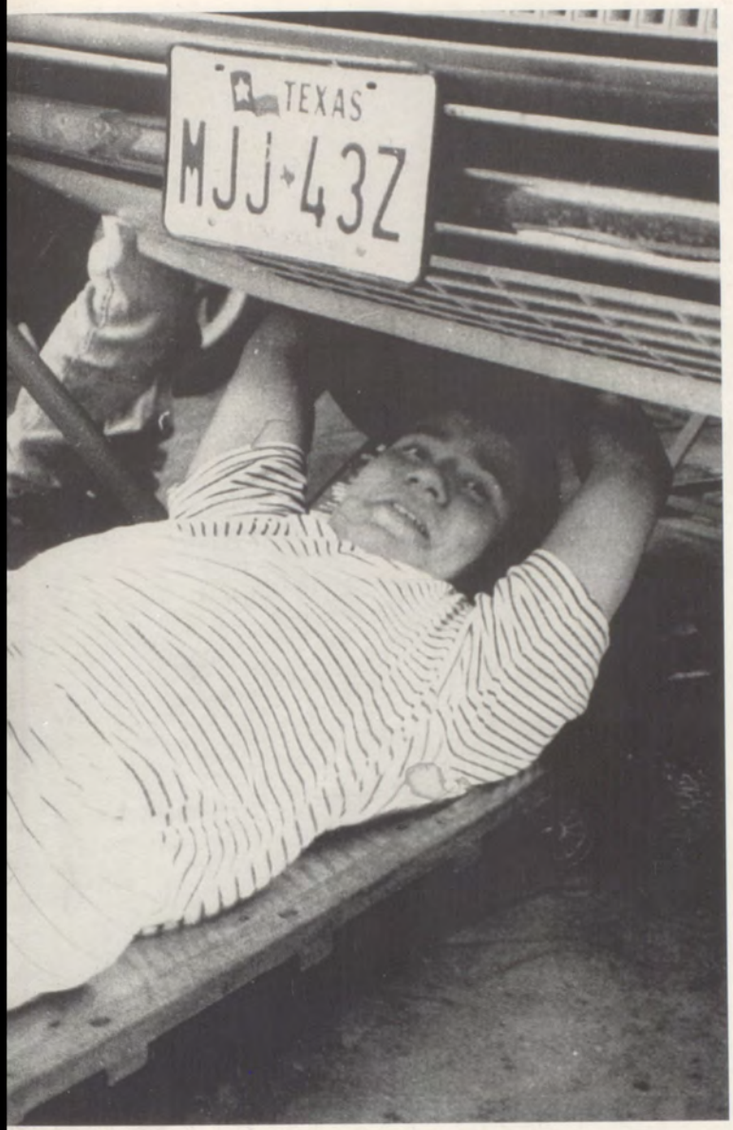

Lori Grimm has been an exemplary language student. Her advancing to the state German contest in three events — poetry reading, prose reading, and original slide show presentation — was proof of both her ability and her enthusiasm for language learning.

Making Decisions

During your life you make tons of choices everyday. These decisions could make a drastic difference in your way of life for the future. Every choice you make effects what happens next in your life. It's often difficult to make decisions when there is more than one choice. Well, throughout your high school years, you had to take electives, sometimes more than one. These classes gave us a chance to take courses that were not required, as well as have fun at the same time. There was a huge variety of choices. For example, art, speech, accounting, floral design, wildlife management, computer classes, drama, ag, and welding are some of these electives that may have given us a head start and or a taste of "the real world." Also, at the same time they often gave us a leap into our futures. That can be a big plus when you jump into college head first without knowing what's going on. Think about it: a whole new place, a total new group of people, somewhere you've never been before. That's why it's great to know what kind of challenging courses await.

Since every student at Taylor High School was definately his own unique person, it was great that there were so many choices of electives. Isn't that great? Hello! Hello! Are you still paying attention? Because I am not quite finished yet. Just sit tight and relax a little! OK, anyways! All the students had a different dream and adventure waiting for us to pursue in the future. Fortunately our school was equipt with almost every possible elective. Sometimes we as students did not give our school quite as much credit as it needed. We were able to grow as students by taking some of the challenging elective courses.

ANSWERING THE CALL

Almost every student here at Taylor High School could use some extra cash whether it be for car payments or for that piece of gum after lunch. Here at Taylor High, students are offered the chance to earn money while gaining the knowledge and experience of today's work force. There is a wide range of jobs from which students may choose. Whether that means answering phone calls or changing the oil on a car, there is a job out there to satisfy everyone. While in the vocational program, students participated in the Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT), Vocational Office Education (VOE), Home Ecomomics Cooperative Education (HECE), Teaching Experience Program (TEP), and Distributive Education Cooperative Association (DECA) to name a few. Each of these programs gave personal experiences in their respective business fields as well. For instance, ICT helped prepare students who were interested in careers in technical fields. DECA involved students in sales; HECE prepared students for careers pertaining to food service and child care, and TEP permitted students to take the teachers' place for a day. Many of these programs had prerequisites, such as keyboarding or auto mechanics. Each of these prerequisites not only helped students during their high school years, but will also assist them in their future careers. The vocational program was very useful for many students here at Taylor High School. They gained much knowledge that could not have been learned in a classroom and now they have a better view of the outside world.

Varsity Football

The scorching sun beat down on the Ducks during two-a-days as they anxiously prepared for the 1993 football season. These guys were not happy to be out in the extreme heat, but they were excited to get back into the grove. The Pop Warner days were over for these guys. No more fun in the sun. It was back to business for the Taylor Ducks. This was where the extremely strenuous battle began. Starting the season with thirty-six players, Taylor had a long, hard road ahead of them.

As football season opened, the Ducks were filled with high hopes for the year ahead of them. Though the first game ended in a depressing loss to the McCallum Knights, the guys came back and won the next two games.

Injuries repeatedly plagued the team and brought tremendous frustration to the guys. The injuries during the season were hard to deal with and produced many obstacles for the team to overcome. However, the Ducks refused to give up. The losses Taylor had to face as the season progressed also made it hard to keep a positive attitude and outlook on the season. With all the determination Taylor had, we were destined to beat our long time rival, Georgetown. Taylor's last game of the season was against the Leander Lions. Although the Lions had not won one single game the entire season, the Ducks did not take this game lightly. Leander has been known to put up a good fight against the Ducks. So, this game was just as important as the previous nine. The Ducks proudly wrapped up the year and defeated the Leander Lions for a final victory.

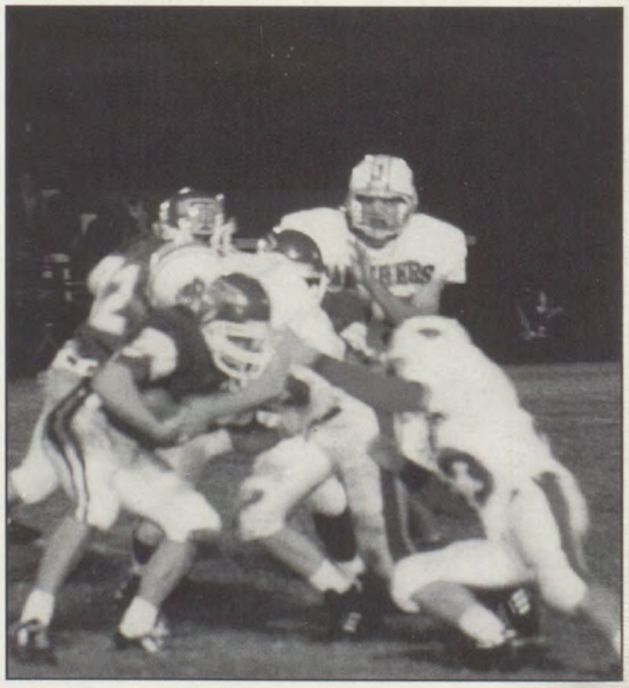

> "There is no 'I' in TEAM. It takes every player on a team to win!"

Finishing the season with a 4-6 record, the Ducks were proud to have improved upon the previous season's record.

J. V. and Freshmen

The freshmen and junior varsity years of playing football are a time for growing and learning experiences. Those were the years when football teams were formed. Though most of the guys had played football their seventh and eighth grade years, the experience of high school football was completely different. The boys found that the new world of high school football was full of ups and downs unlike they had ever experienced before. The junior varsity and freshmen football teams both had a great season.

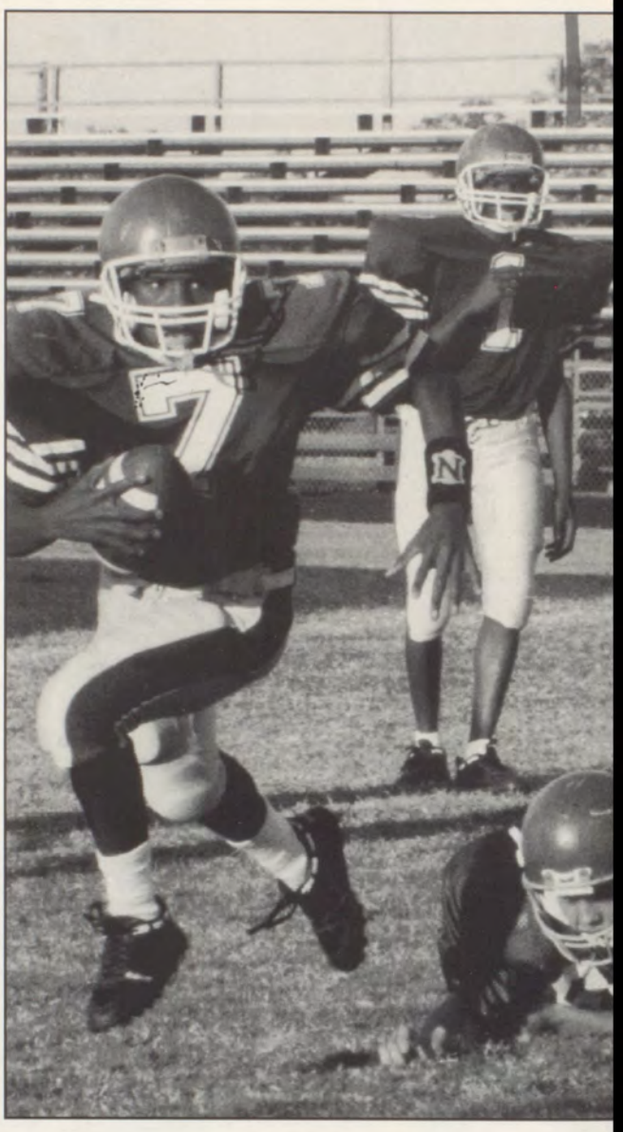

An unbelievably talented team that was willing to make to commitment it takes allowed the junior varsity ducks take the season away from almost everyone. The ducks started the season with a morale building five game winning streak until they lost to Belton in a heartbreaking loss. Winning all but one of the final games, the junior varsity team finished the season with a well deserved 9-2 record, proving that there are many exciting seasons to come.

"We had fun and won a lot of games!"
-Duwane Jackson

The freshmen Ducks had an inspiring season. The team performed wonderfully for just starting to learn the ropes of high school football; these guys did extremely well. The freshmen began their season with a bang winning the first four of their games. They gave all they had, and they concluded the season with a hard earned 6-4 record. The freshmen Ducks showed their true colors and did a great job in their first year of high school football.

After seeing the commitment and extraordinary talent of these players, we were all sure that there were many great seasons of spirited competition to come. With these guys, the football seasons of the future have a winning outlook.

Varsity Volleyball

Heads or tails? Who got to serve first? The varsity volleyball team always dove head first into their games and stayed aware of the tougher teams. When the season began, the varsity volleyball team started off with the best of attitudes and gave their all to make that season a winning one. They never lost sight of their goals and always strived to reach them with all their hearts. During the course of the season, the players gave their all to help bring the team out on top. Diving, rolling, bumping, and spiking were common on the court to get the crucial points to win the game. The girls proved they were willing to go to any length to win the game. They demonstrated how commited they were when they played in pain, and they inspired us all by never getting overconfident or never getting down when they were fighting an uphill battle. They were by far one of the most inspiring groups at Taylor High. This truly amazing group of girls was comprised of players from the senior, junior, and sophomore classes. These girls worked hard to keep the ball set and to keep the spikes and serves coming. The team came together when it counted to make memories we will always remember. The team grew up together as a family, from dazzling wins to heart breaking losses, they were always there for each other banning together as one. Even though the team worked hard and gave their all, they came up a little short and were left with a feeling of dissapointment. Determined and anxious to do their part, the Lady Ducks depended mostly on ability, but they also learned the most important thing to remember about being a good player was to always use your head to keep the team together.

"It was a let down because we were expecting to be one of the best teams out Taylor. In the end our team fell apart for unknown reasons."

J.V. and Freshmen

Serve it! Set it! Bump it! Spike it! Whatever, just play the game! The JV and freshmen volleyball teams had a season like no other. The season went up, over, and down, much like the ball did. Although the rough times were dealt with seriously, the games were still fun. Team work was the key to having a wonderful experience and a chance to grow. Winning wasn't everything. Just being on the team and working together towards a common goal was good enough for the girls. They, however, worked hard to win, stuck together as a team, and essentially made the most of their time. The coaches were very supportive and their screaming and shouting paid off. Coach Jones led JV to an unstable yet satisfying season while Coach Kennedy led the freshmen team to a season of similar results. "It was a big experience for our freshmen team because we had new coaches and were not really used to playing with the people we were with, but it turned out pretty well," said Andrea Dominguez, a freshmen player. Both teams worked hard, sweated, and had games and memories which would last each of them a lifetime. The victories along with the failures are times that the players will always look back on and say that the extreme pressure and the hard practices really did pay off. We lost a few players' spirit, but we were able to stick together and try our best. The competition was hard, but the Taylor JV and freshmen teams were even harder. They worked hard and did not take "no" for an answer. They held their heads up high and played not only for the sport of it, but also for the fun of it. They tried hard and did not give up, and the results of the season reflected their positive attitudes and their extreme desire to work as a team.

"It was hard work but it paid off pretty well! We had an up and down season and it was a good experience for us."

Varsity Basketball

The 1993-1994 basketball season was one packed with excitement and enjoyment for the players and the fans. The Ducks dropped the first game of the season; however, they kept their heads up and reeled off ten consecutive wins. Then came the final pre-district game against Rockdale. Led by seniors, the Ducks overcame Rockdale in a three point thriller. The seniors, along with a supporting cast came into the district race with an impressive 18-2 record. The Ducks began district on a sour note falling to a fourteenth ranked Waco University squad. The game against University was not all that bad though. In the game, the Ducks used tenacious defense to hang close throughout the entire game. This game gave the Taylor squad a feeling that they could play with anyone. Through the rest of the district season, the Ducks went through a series of ups and downs, but the Taylor Ducks closed the district season with an impressive 85-70 victory over the Belton Tigers. Unfortunately, the win came a bit too late. When it was all said and done, Taylor's record in district was 4-6. For the season, the Ducks sported an impressive 22-8 record. The 1993-1994 basketball season was a very impressive one for the Taylor Ducks. This year's team will provide a strong foundation for many up coming seasons. Taylor Duck hoops will be a force to reckon with for many years to come. The 1993-94 campaign was a huge step in the right direction for Taylor Duck Basketball. The season was a truly great year.

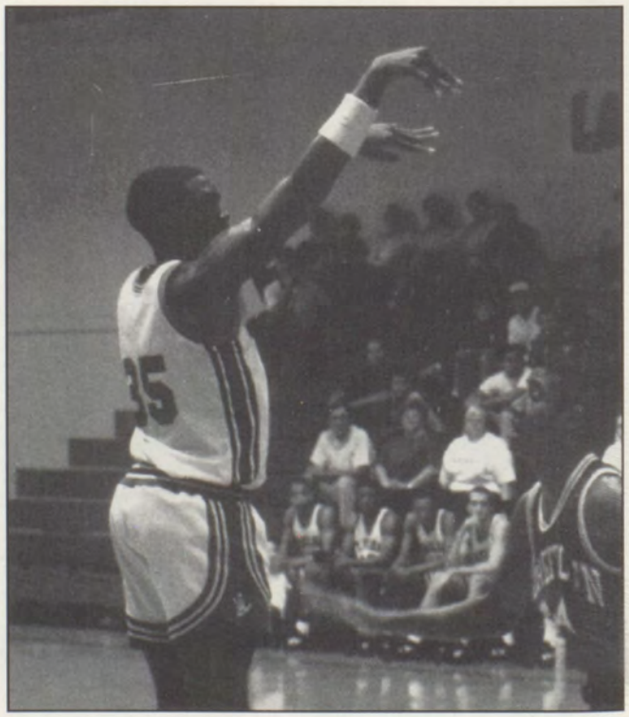

I was very disappointed with our district performance, but overall, it was a great year. I think our record clearly displays that the Taylor Ducks had a great basketball season.

Boys Basketball

The basketball season for these boys was very impressive. These teams proved that hard work and long practices pay off. These teams always displayed a postive attitude and showed magnificant sportsmanship. These teams were able to strive only through the excellent leadership of their coaches and the personal commitment of each and every player. Basketball required a commitment from every player, the boys who played gave up their own free time to practice as a team. Most of time that wasn't enough for these boys, they went home and pracited that shot they just missed eariler that day. That kind of devotation is what let these teams strive. These boys were willing to pratice and work hard, because they wanted to excell as they did.

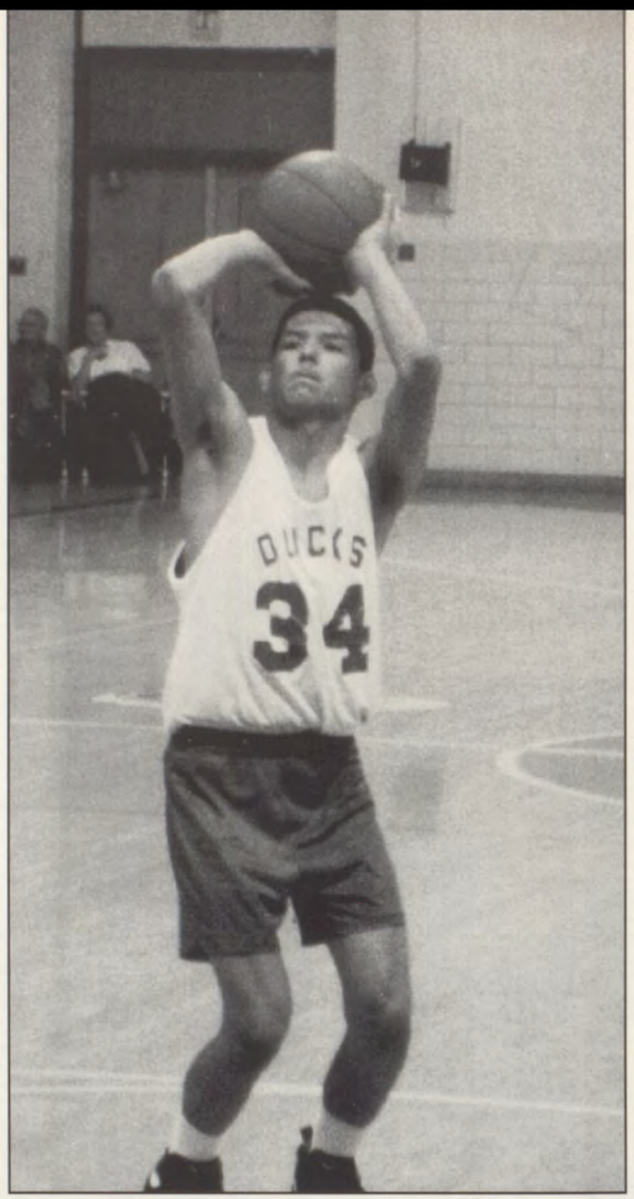

The players, coaches, and managers all gave up time to make their team work. They never complained when they were required to make those long road trips and then start to play. These teams were amazingly always able to give one hundred and ten percent to push themselves over the edge to that all important win. This hard work and personal sacrifice are just a few of the admirable traits these teams displayed.

> We had a great season and a lot of fun. We all knew that this year was prepairing us for playing on varistiy, and we are looking forward to it.
> Mason Miller

These teams did have a few problems as any teams does. Their problems ranged from Coach Price's illness which required that he miss part of the season to having a hard time getting in the gym to practice; afterall everyone wanted in there. While both teams were large, everyone made a difference in his own way.

These two teams showed that a group of athletes can come together and with hard work and dedication, they can make an awsome team. These boys were truly sportmen.

Girls Basketball

The Lady Ducks were truly an inspiration to us all. They had a hard season to work their way through. Through the incredible commitment and dedication these girls put into their teams, they prospered. There was never a question as to these girls dedication, they always practiced as hard as any of the boys teams and never once did they complain. They practiced hard and played that much harder.

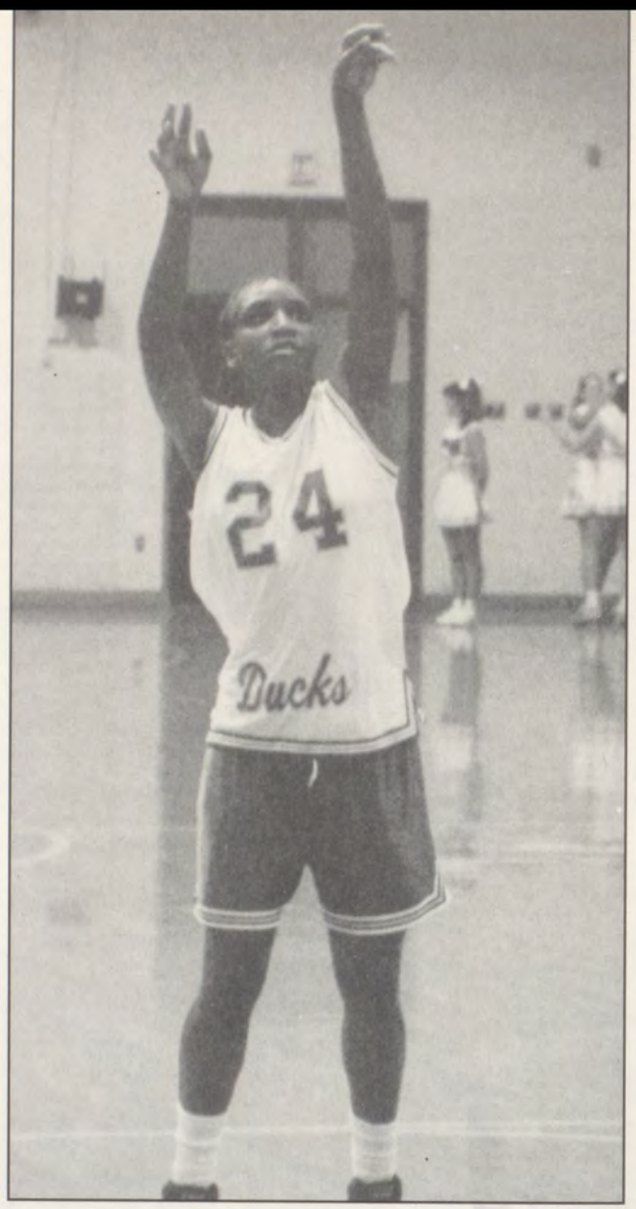

While these girls were very busy with all their activities, they never forgot the team. Through their hard work, they prospered and won several tournaments, including the Burnet Invitational and the Taylor Optimist tournament. The team pulled together when it counted which we can clearly see through their excellent records.

While they did have some problems, as any team does, that never slowed them down. They definitely overcame any doubts that anyone may have had about them. As the season went by, it was easy to see how the team grew together and the girls learned to depend on each other. Sometimes the team seemed like a second family to the girls. Without the hard work and close knit arrangement of this team, their season wouldn't have been possible. With the help of their coach and the group efforts of this team, they showed their true colors and prospered.

> This year went very well. I was glad to have been part of this team. We worked hard and played well. There will be good teams for years to come.

The team, as always, performed well against the incredibly tough teams they had to take on in their district. We were always impressed and proud of our girls. The Lady Ducks will be ready in the future. With the signs of excellence showing in this team, we are assured that the teams of the future will be of the same excellent caliber as this team was.

Boys Track

Shootin' out with a bang! Taylor High School's boy track team shot out with a bang as they headed off the season. As a team they accomplished many of their goals. One of their goals was to make it to district without injuries or any other accidents, and to be able to participate you must accumulate a 70 or above average in all classes. The team learned a lot this year. They learned how to help each other and encourage each other for each and every event. An athlete always needs someone supporting them.

This year we had many new editions to the track team who accomplished many of their tasks. It is always a new experience running track in high school rather than in junior high or elementary. There is always competition in each and every race. Many of these runners give up a lot of their time to devote themselves to track. It takes a lot of hard work to be on the track team, and you can bet that if you asked any track team member how hard they worked, they would tell you that they worked very hard, but it was worth it. Each runner gave their heart and soul to the team and each came out a winner.

"It was a great experience being the first ones to go to State, since the ones that went 10 years ago"

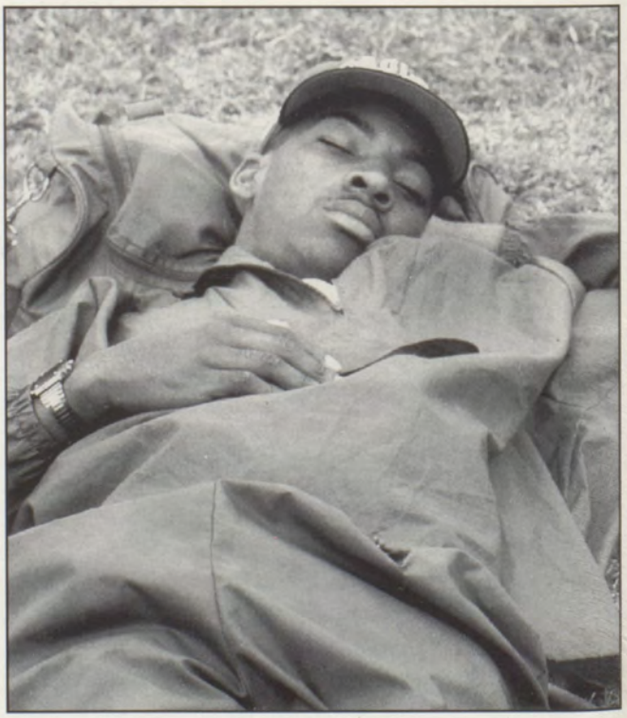

-Patrick Wilson

I wanted to make a special note about the 400 meter relay team. They included senior Patrick Wilson, Horace Caruthers, junior Jeremy Pack, and sophomore Stacey Corley. These four guys left an outstanding impression at the state track meet. They palced fifth in the 400 meter relay. We take great honor and pride in the four guys as well as the rest of the team. Girls Track

Get it Girl'z! The Taylor High School girls track team went out with style at the end of the season. These thirteen girls showed a lot of heart to run. They had hard, long work-outs. Doing drill after drill, lap after lap, and bleacher after bleacher, these thirteen girls became close throughout the season. They worked together to accomplish the task. When one was overcome by sadness because of the outcome of her event, the others were there to comfort. Track is not just an individual sport; it is team work.

Their coach was just as dedicated as the girls. Coach Dee Jones stayed everyday after school to help her girls. She was proud of her girls when they did good, but she was also proud of them when they tried their best and did not do quite so hot.

The challenge for these girls was not only thier opponents but also the challenge from the inside. They looked within themselves to find the strength to run, and sometimes it was not there. When they did bad in a certain event, they analyzed it and tried to do better next time.

> "Track is not just an individual sport, it is team work." Felisha Thompson exemplifies this motto.

Track is a very good sport. To see runners sprinting around the track is an amazing sight. Runners show a lot of grace. For instance, the hurdlers show much grace within the form of the jump. The high-jumpers show their graceful but limber form in crossing the bar. By far though the most exciting and graceful thing is when runners are running neck to neck for the finish line. Their heart is pounding just as fast as the opponents, and in the end they know that there is only one winner. Sometimes they may win, but they may also lose, but that's only one race and there is plenty more as long as they have the will.

Tennis

The tennis team was a group of students who truly realized how much work sports took. We had no class time to practice which meant that we had to work out after school. We practiced in the sun, rain, and driving wind, but we never let it get us down. We gave our all on the court and had fun off the court.

One of the problems we faced was practice time. Every player on the team was very active in our school; sometimes we had several meetings and then we had to race to practice. However, that never slowed us down. We always found time to practice. Maybe you think we had those days off when it rained, as it often did. Think again! When it rained, the team never missed a stride. We simply went to a gym to practice. The team didn't just play tennis, we did everything from running to weight lifting to prepare ourselves for our matches. Many of the players stayed after practice to put in that little, but crucial extra time to put us over the top.

"1994 was a good year. I expect '95 to be even better."

-Coach Vickie Hall

The players will always remember those tournaments that always seemed to be on that Saturday you had plans. That never stopped this team from giving it their all and making those tournaments. We will never forget times when we sat and waited for the rain to stop falling and the court to be dried, so we could just begin our matches. Or how about those times when the Texas sun beat down on our heads, and we had to drink gallons of water just to survive on those courts. Even through all that, we never gave up our hope and always gave it our all.

This team was willing to put in that extra work it took to make the team shine. Overall this was a sucessful and dedicated team.

A Life Sport

The Taylor Golf Team had an active year! New and exiciting things were done! The girls and guys got together and raised money by doing a few fundraishers. They had a bar-b-que dinner, sold cups, and also had a tournament in honor of Pam Bachmeyer! The golf team has come a far way in just a few years. The varisty guys golf team placed fourth in district and the girls golf team placed 3rd in district just one place away from going to regionals. An extrodinary golfer from the girls golf team, Tracy Dominqez went to regionals again for her second visit. She placed fourth which is awesome! Tracy was also elected to be on the All District Team. Two guys Daniel Bachmeyer and Mason Miller, for their second time, were elected to the All District Team! The golf team had a very competitive attitude which guided them to do so well this year. Coach Danny Potts also did a great job this year. He not only coaches the High School golf team he also coaches the Middle School team too! The High School golf team helped the Middle School golf team get ready for their tournaments, which was very exciting for all the players. We were able to spend time with the future players of Taylor High School. You could say the golf team deserves a thumbs up for all the hard work they put forth. Golf is not only a spectactor sport, but not just anyone can play it. It takes that special feeling all the players had. This has been one of the most challenging but rewarding years for the Golf Team! Congrats!

This year went well and I was proud of how the team performed.

BASEBALL

The 1993-1994 baseball season was an exciting season for all the Taylor High School players as well as for the fans. We Ducks proved to everyone that we were a team that could overcome every obstacle that was thrown our way. Throughout the season, dealing with competition, cold weather, and sweaty days were only a few of the many challenges faced. With a record of 7-3 in district and 18-4 overall, the we moved on to the playoffs. As the crowds filled the stands and watched all the exciting games played, we proved to all of them that we were a team that pulled together and gave it their all, a team that had determination and goals that they wanted to see come true. Every player on the team had an important part to play throughout the game. Whether you were a catcher, pitcher, outfielder, or rooting the others on from the dug out, all parts were important and were put together to form a team. As baseball players we proved to ourselves that there was no "I" in TEAM. Concentration and determination were two important aspects this season. The crowd also had to have these two aspects to keep the adrenaline pumping in the players at all of the games and also to dodge a few of those foul balls (200 hundred points if you hit a bus!). We not only had stress with the practices and games but also with having to keep up our grades to be able to participate. From running crowns, fielding ground balls, and practicing batting, we pulled all these skills together and proved to our fans that we had formed an outstanding baseball team. Pounding the walls of the dugout wasn't the only thing that raised the moral of our teammates. We each had a special energy pumping inside us, allowing us to fight through adversity and give it our all.

"We played extremely well as a team this year and had a lot of fun along the road to the playoffs. I enjoyed being a part of a team that brought excitement back to Taylor High School.

Softball

1994 was the first year the Taylor Ducks had a softball team. This was a new beginning for many of the girls. It was a time to learn how to start something from scratch and gain the support of the school and community. But most importantly, it was a time to learn team work. Softball, as many of the girls discovered this year, does not necessarily mean a soft ball. Most of the girls concentrated mainly on hitting the ball, before the ball hit them.

All of the girls were extremely excited about the season and even though they knew it would be a lot of fun, they were also preparing themselves for all the hard work ahead of them. Through many, many fundraisers and the great support and help from the loyal parents, the faithful community, the supportive coaches, and the hardworking girls themselves, the dream of playing softball at the high school level finally became a reality for the girls. Even though the girls did not win many softball games they were bound and determined to finish what they had started. The girls had introduced softball, something that was completely new to Taylor High School, and they were not as concerned with winning as they were with trying their best to be remembered as the very first Taylor High girls softball team.

> I enjoyed playing softball this year. The team worked very hard and we had a lot of fun. It's been a memorable year.
> -Kimberly Bragg

The girls had started a new tradition that they hoped would last. They decided it was a new beginning, soon to be a winning one.

Organizations

So Many Things to Do So Little Time

National Honor Society

You could say that National Honor Society is a very distinct honor. It takes more than just good grades to become a member. Filling out an application was just a start. All NHS members selected must be actively participating in three or more clubs and maintain at least an overall B average in all courses taken! Finally comes teacher approval. As a member of NHS, students donated a lot of their time! National Honor Society donated time to help raise coats for the kids and also gave up time to sponsor a grandparent at local rest homes. The major fundraiser for the year was suckers and a concession stand at an early football game. The fundraisers raised enough money to still give out four scholarships! This year was the first year for NHS to induct so many members. NHS proudly had a total of 90 members in its organization, bigger than ever! Fifty-three members were inducted. NHS membership not only excelled in leadership and academic excellence, but also display great courtesy to others! The year for NHS proved to be a successful one. At graduation, NHS senior members proudly wore their NHS collars to signify their leadership and accomplishments.

Esprit a whole new look

Esprit went through a few major changes this year. The first of these was losing Elizabeth Foley to AP English. Cathy Kern took over as coordinator. This year, instead of meeting for a class once a week, we began meeting only occassionly, saving up all our time to go out on all day field trips, once a month. So where did we go? Well. . .we started off the year exploring breakthroughs in medical technology. Those who could stomach it went on the field trip to the Austin Diagnostic Center. The next topic we decided to pursue was economics, so we traveled to Merrill Lynch to learn first hand from a stock broker. Art and architecture was the next topic. We went to see a house worth around 3 million. Finally, our last field trip brought us to Sea World. This was a learning trip, but we still had fun. We got to go "behind the scenes" and learn a lot more about the animals than the regular public would. How many people can say they have "high-fived" a dolphin before?

Discovering New, Old Knowledge

Students, avid about history, got together this year under the direction of Cathy Kern, and formed a new club, the Junior Historians. Even though this was our first year, we accomplished a great amount. On Veterans Day we honored those who served our country with a thought-provoking reading done over the announcements. We also hosted a tour of homes at Christmas time. Another one of our accomplishments that we are very proud of was establishing the Outstanding Female Teacher Award. We also learned a lot when we helped attended Taylor's Loc Days. Many people ju realize Taylor's richly background. However, of our activities this one we enjoyed the r traveling to Dallas to caust Museum and Center. The Holocaust was chillingly informat hard to believe they things like that.'' said Diana Safarik about he sions on the museum its.

Business Professionals of America

Business Professionals of America, a group known for their highly achieved talents, display integrity and represent Taylor High School in the most sophisticated way possible. Members are those who have taken office related courses or are a member of the Office Administrative Coop. Many of us were eager to experience a taste of the real world. We understood that the real world would be a drastic change from our regular school environment and activities. Therefore, Business Professionals of America was the answer for some of us to prepare for our future. We worked part time and learned many important skills at our place of employment as well as at school. We felt that this experience was really a step into the working world. Learning certain tasks for our employers, as well as for ourselves, we felt we would have an advantage when it came time to go into this new environment on a permanent basis. Because we could work, our knowledge and skills for secretarial work were extremely improved, and we knew this would contribute to our future success.

To create a closer bond among members, a Christmas party was held at Buzan's Family Restaurant. This year, Business Professionals of America also visited Farmers Insurance and the state capital which was an educational and interesting experience. At contest, Business Professionals of America ranked among the best with their achievements in office skills, legal and medical concepts, and financial skills. This year BPA proved to be a wonderful success, walking away with eight state qualifiers. From state contest, Taylor came home with one national qualifier. Taylor's Business Professionals of America continues to put panache and success back in our school!

Teachers for our Future

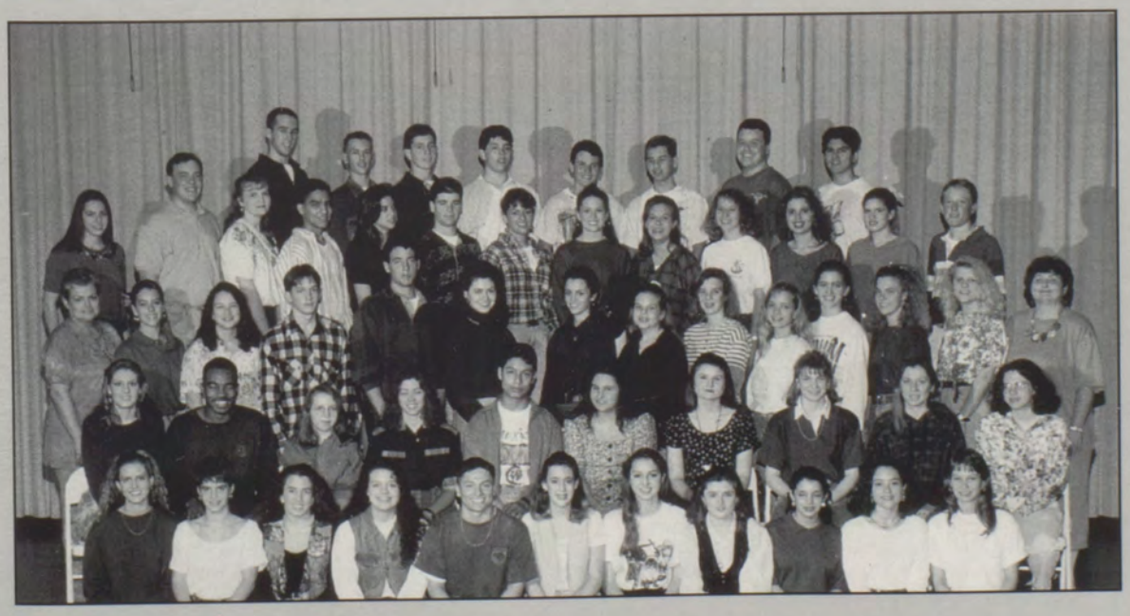

F.T.A., otherwise known as the Future Teachers of America, was an organization which promoted students to become successful in life by encouraging them to continually acquire knowledge and execute it accordingly. The club was organized by a group of students who expressed an interest in the field of education. Although the teaching profession does not always pay a high salary, it's long lasting benefits are plentiful. For example, teachers provide help to make students establish rewarding, yet educational memories. As a member of Future Teachers of America, students held the responsibility of leading and encouraging fellow students and the community.

In 1993, members of the club attended the annual district convention, and Taylor brought one of the largest groups there. These students learned more of what was expected in the teaching field. The district convention was located at Austin, so the members loaded on the bus early on Saturday morning to spend the day with other Future Teachers of America in the surrounding area. Those that attended this convention went on to attend the state convention in Austin on February 18-19. This was an exciting and beneficial experience for F.T.A. members. The members were able to spend a night away from Taylor in the Red Lion Hotel. It was a BLAST!

They were brave enough to take the club on a daring trip to Six Flags in Dallas on April 9. It was a long trip on the bus but was gobs of fun!!! F.T.A. had a great year and will have many more to come.

Living the Dream

Acting: the ambition....the dedication....the heart . Occasionally an OAP cast conforms to these standards of dramatics, but rarely before has a cast had such a hold on the latter as this year's did. An OAPer once said that acting is like "living in a dream", and then another answered, "I hope you never wake up." When you have the heart, you're living the dream.

Our One Act Play this year was The Monday After the Miracle. This play picked up where The Miracle Worker left off with an explosive triangle. We threw ourselves into the play heart and soul. The stage had never before seen a more dedicated cast as a whole, and that dedication was a considerable asset because the script this year was very involved, (We know what you're saying, Pookie: "Uh. . .oh yeah?") with learning the sign language and all.

Once we had our lines memorized, found cornstarch for Tessa's sweaty hands, learned to tolerate pool shirts, and got Little Kernie Boy to act like an old man (Because he wanted to, not because we told him to, mind you!) we saw things actully coming together. When we got costumes, it felt like we were actually living in the turn of the century, almost like a dream.

Going to contest, we knew we had the best play Taylor had seen in a very long time. However, in the greatest scandal since Watergate, Michael Jackson, and "Cop Rock" being taken off the air, the judge didn't advance us.

In our hearts, we won. No matter what any judge ever said, there was no doubt. We knew. As long as we continue to keep the play and each other in our hearts, no matter what any judge, professor, boss, etc. . .in the future ever says, we will always live the dream.

Working as a Team

Among the great new things that happened at Taylor High School this year was our new class called KDUC. KDUC was a group of thirteen students who worked very hard as a production team. We aired shows around five minutes every Friday. With the help of our teacher, Dan Volek, we were able to show exciting and fun footage of events that happened around school. There were also special editions such as Wayne's World, a football talk show with head coach Wayne Schroeder. Also, Crimestoppers, The Man in the Hall, and sports. A few unique occasions we covered were: Homecoming, The Cricket Invasion, and getting ready for football season (set to "Footloose"). These shows updated the Taylor students and falculty with what was going on around our school. This was a great opportunity of for us to learn how to work with high tech equipment as well as work as a team to get things done! Not only did we have weekly shows, but we also made the audio announcements. The KDUC staff filmed all kinds of footage, and also edited it together, adding special graphics and music. "It's the greatest feeling to see a show you've worked so hard on turn out perfect, just how you wanted it!", says junior Tessa Rhoades. Putting a show together takes much longer than you could ever imagine. First you must get every piece of footage recorded just how you want it. Then it's always hard to get the music to fit with what's on in the show. Next, if you want to add special graphic effects, that takes extra time, too. Like we said, the whole thing is very tedious, time consuming, but lots of fun as well. It really proves that in order to get things done, you have to work as a team.

Students United for Responsible Fun

SURF, Students United for Responsible Fun, provided many chemical-free, fun filled activities for the student body of Taylor High. SURF's main objective was to help us, the students, understand that one can still have fun and refrain from the use of alcohol and or drugs. During football season SURF fun nights were held. At these fun nights, we watched movies, played games, conversed with our friends and sometimes just goofed around. What a fun time we had! SURF also sponsored Red Ribbon Week. Students hung red ribbons around town to promote a drug free environment. Each day during the week at school, we wore designated colors, such as yellow, red, blue, and black to show our willingness to be drug and alcohol free. After school that week, the SURF club also held an ice cream social. During basketball season, a root beer social was held after one of the games in the cafeteria. Before Spring Break an exciting pep rally was sponsored by SURF. The purpose of this pep rally was to encourage students to have a safe, drug free Spring Break. Students showed their support for a chemical-free vacation by wearing distinct colors according to their class. Freshman sported a green shirt, sophomores wore blue, juniors styled black, and seniors were chillin' in white. During the pep rally the spring sports were announced. Battle of the classes, games and relays were held between these differnet sports. They were not only exciting for the participants but also for the audience.

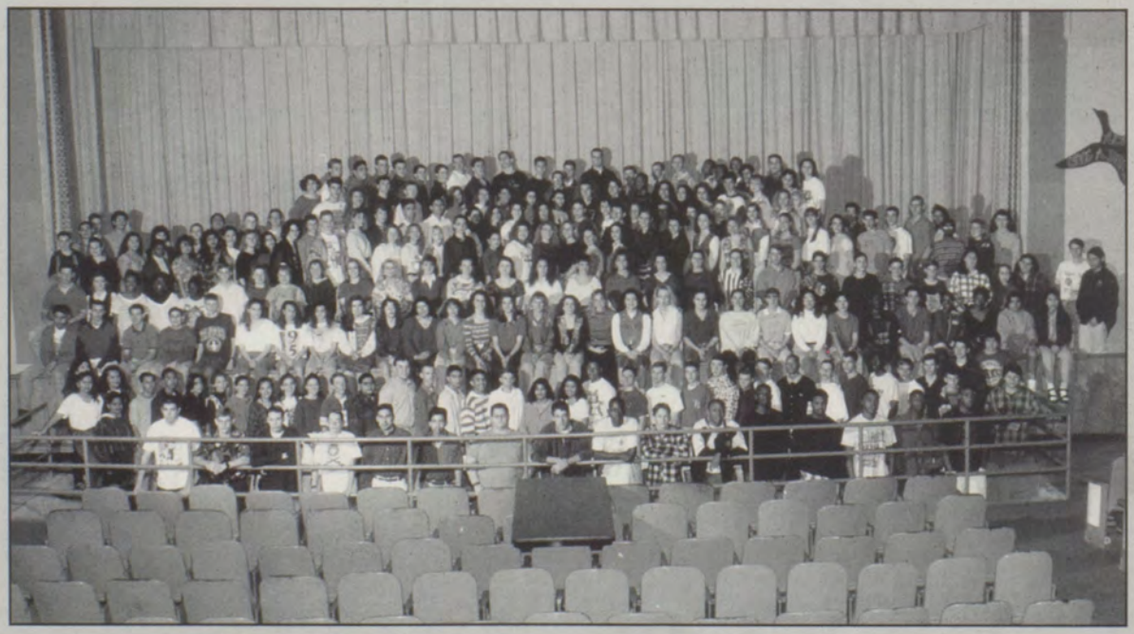

SURF offered something great for the students at our school. There was a tremendous need to have a positive attitude in our school, and the SURF club at THS offered it.

It All Adds Up To This

Mu Alpha Theta: honors math club. Really boring, huh?. . .Not on your life. Besides just keeping busy with numbers, derivitives, etc. . ., this year we decided to do a fund raiser. MAΘ has become notorious for the annual Mr./Miss Pageant. Last year's pageant was wonderful, but this year's pageant was SPECTACULAR! We had one of the largest crowds for a performance the auditorium had ever seen. The contestants included: Jane Vandarzan (James Vanderford), Karla (Karl) Fuessel, Rochelle Des Demona (Ricky Henry), Inita Man (Hardy Jackson), Phyllystina Christina Consuela (Phillip Zimmerhanzel), Kapriesha Kanona Brown (Markell Autry), Travina Woulcoalsky (Travis Winkler), and Sweet Preserves (Dustin Dean Massey). Things got "a little out of hand" when Haystack Cherry (Ramon Santa Cruz) appeared, as well as when some guy came out on stage in his "underwear", but Security was on hand at all times to keep things under control. The pageant was a huge success.

What is Art

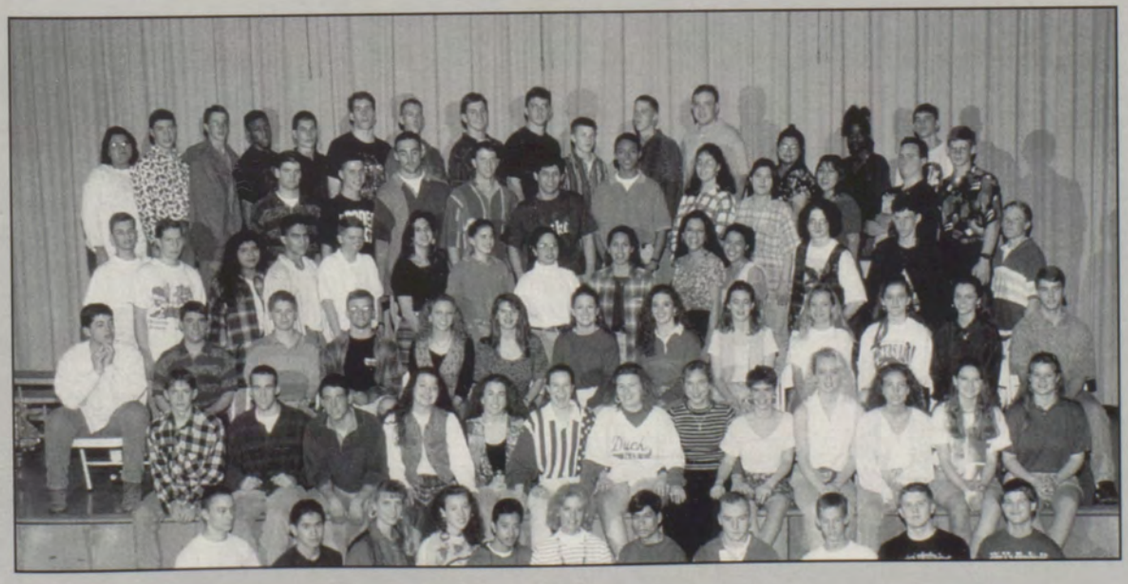

When you want to be able to express yourself or even explore your feelings about something, where do you turn? Perhaps to writing. For other talented folk, art is the answer. Art was more than a class or a club. For many of us, it was an outlet. Since the creation of art is something that is inside of you and expresses itself in many different ways, it was necessary to see the full scope of possibilities. For example, when you think of art, what comes to mind? The classics, charcoals, pastels, or maybe sculptures. Art isn't just drawing and painting; it's also a way of expressing yourself in unusual ways. One of the most important parts of art is that it frees the mind to express itself in it's own way. Art class included something for everyone whether you liked to draw, paint, or create your own designs. The best part about art was that there was something for everyone. During the year many different projects were assigned, many of which were displayed around the school. We all were impressed with the talents our students prossessed. We also took fieldtrips to various places in the area, museums and art galleries to name a few.

It is Science Time

With the Science Club being one of the larger clubs, you can bet there was a lot of fun to be had. One of the first things the Science Club did was go to the National Science Museum in Houston. A bunch of sleepy-eyed members boarded the buses at 6:30 in the morning. With pillows and blankets in hand, we set out for a four hour drive. Stopping only once (at McDonalds), we made it just on time. From watching a film on the Imax screen to visiting the museum filled with weird things, we were all worn out and ready to go back home. The Science Club also visited Texas A&M's Science Technology and Youth Symposium in March to attend workshops.

The Science Club was not all fun and games though. A lot of hard work was done by all. Taking care of the 100 trees donated by the Rotary, which were planted around Taylor was a big job. The big fundraiser this year was selling candy and earth products. Around every corner there was someone trying to sell you something. After the sales were made, we had the job of tracking people down and sometimes that proved to be very difficult. All the hard work paid off because we raised enough money to take our trip to Galveston.

The Science Club gave us a chance to experience many new things. It also helped us make new friends, while giving us a safe and fun way to be with the ones we already had.

We would like to thank Mrs. Sutton and Mrs. Kaubaugh for their time and dedication they

One of the best aspects about high school is the wide variety of options in the curriculm. No matter what our interests, there was always something for everyone. There were classes established for people interested in horticulture, agriculture, animal science, or welding. These classes taught people about livestock and plants. The organization with these courses was Future Farmers of America or FFA. In FFA people learned the importance of careful planning and management in order to produce the best livestock and crops around the area. Members of FFA also showed their animals in various contest, including the Williamson County Livestock Show. The classes provided students with a needed wide variety of knowledge in the farming and the livestock field. These classes also prepared students for future jobs in the work field. FFA is an extremely useful class here at Taylor High School that provides many students opportunity for years to come. Being an important part of American life as farmers, ranchers, or ag technologists was the goal of many FFA students. Participants in Future Farmers of America raised such animals as cows and chickens also. The people took great care of animals and spent a lot of time with them. To many of these prople in FFA, their animal was just another part of the family. Also, along with the things FFA students learned from books and tests, they developed a sense of responsibility and hard work, since a lot of learning came from "hands-on-experience". The FFA students walked away from classes with an appreciation for hard work as they toiled daily to get their animals in shape to place highly in the stock show. FFA is an extremely important club here at Taylor High School and will provide students with the knowledge of farming and animals for years to come.

The way to go!

Members of Industrial Cooperatives Training prepare for employment in occupations classified as skilled or technical. This also included some medical areas of work, dental assistants, etc. This club, along with DECA, helped prepare students for their careers and teach them to deal with people of various age groups.

Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) sponsored by Mr. Tennill is a great club to get involved in to learn about futuristic responsibility. You were not only getting involved with the community but also becoming more experienced with making a living by earning money.

Also these jobs taught a vital lesson in how to get along in the fast-changing and sometimes frightening world. In addition, it taught the students how to deal with the responsibility of having a job and allowed them even to perhaps gage their future success in a certain field.

The trail to follow!

Getting involved is a great opportunity for students at Taylor Hith School. They have the advantage of coop programs such as Marketing and Education to help them pursue this. Marketing and Education is a vocational class with students that work either in a grocery store or a retail clothing, jewelry store, etc. in addition to high school classes.

The students in the class are members of Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA), sponsored by Mrs. Tennill. This organization provides a way for high school students to earn money and get a taste of the real world. These jobs the students take on in DECA pertain to the sale of a product, service, or idea. DECA allows students to earn school credits while on the job, earn good money and get involved in the community outside of school.

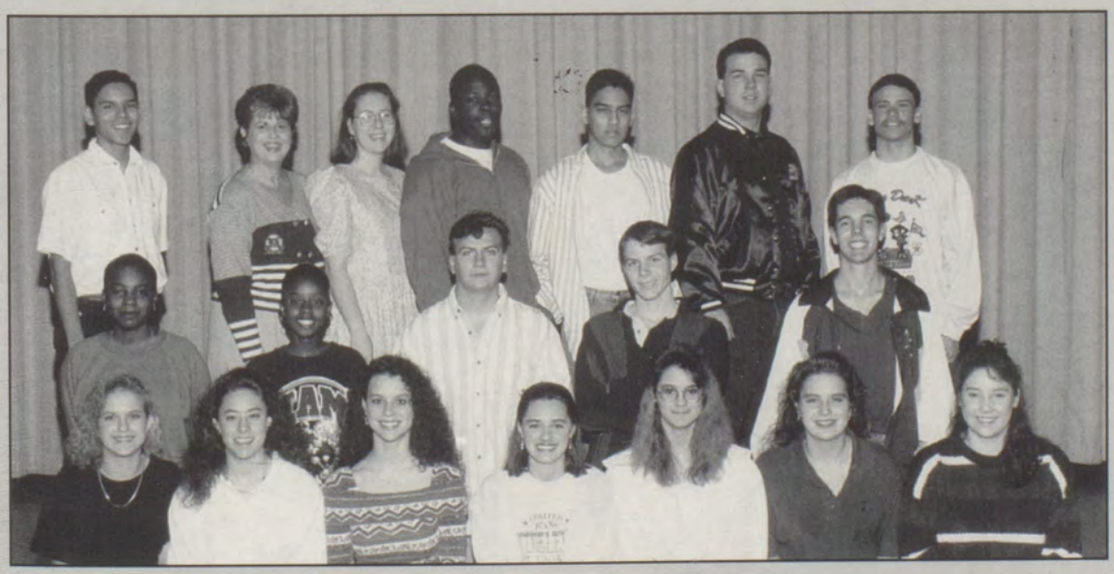

Mrs. Tennill did an excellent job in helping us decide on an interesting job, follow through on work etiquette and making the most of our learning experiences. Most of all, she made us believe in ourselves and our capabilities.

HERO jobs for Tomorrow!

HERO (Home Economics Related Programs) is the HECE (Home Economics Cooperative Education) related club. Members are affiliated state and nationally.

These students worked half a day and attended school the other half. They worked in restaurants, nursing homes, day cares centers, and clothing stores. Two things were gained by working during school. They were able to generate needed credits for graduation and to earn money and gain experience. Working students also learned the skills of how to work and how to care for others.

HERO participated locally in competitive events such as food service, illustrated talks, and job application/interviews. All of our winners were recongnized at the Vocational Banquet.

Throughout the year, members have adopted people in nursing homes and helped in many charitable organizations. They also had fundraisers to help pay for their expenses.

Future Homemakers of America

Future homemakers of America was a very active club at Taylor High. This club was very important to the students in it. This club, unlike others, allowed the students to begin to experiece what it is like to run a home. And it's not as easy as it looks we can assure you!!! For some people this was one of the most challenging courses at Taylor High. Many realized they just weren't cut out to be a home maker; others discovered they were God's gift to a kitchen. This group covered everything from cooking to shopping. The students felt that this club was very beneficial to them since it allowed them to gain knowledge about the real world without leaving the safty of Taylor High. FHA held fundraisers for their club to allow them to travel and help out around town. They were also very active in competetion as well as helping out through community service. They should be congratulated for the hard work and care they gave. They were a very dedicated and caring group of students.

With a Little Help From My Friends

Throughout your life, friends will come and go. By the time you reach your high school years, you usually become aware of who your real friends are. If we think about it, there are all kinds of things that remind us of our friends, such as songs or movies. At Taylor High School we had a special group of students who learned how to be true friends or "pals". This group was called the Duck Pals. They spent an hour or so everyday out of their busy schedules to become pals to other younger students. This bunch traveled to Northside, T.H. Johnson, and Taylor Middle School. These Duck Pals helped with tutoring and other study skills or by just being a friend. Students that were assisted by our Duck Pals became better aquainted with themselves, were more respected at their school, and knew that someone else who cared about them would always be there for them. Many younger students were in need of a friend who would just listen and didn't judge them no matter what they said. These Pals were a group of students who reached out to other students and touched their heart. They helped other students with problems and difficulties they were forced to face throughout their lives. This helped both the Pal and the palee become stronger individuals. It was really hard not to want to reach out and help others who were in need of help, and Pals gave us a way to help at least one person. It was safe to say that every human being who walks the planet Earth needed some kind of help and understanding. Taylor High School was very fortunate to be able to have a great group of students who wanted to reach out a hand to help someone else who needed a friend.

Making a big difference!

Student Senate worked hard to make the 1993-94 school year a great one. This organization was made up of students that were voted into their position by the student body. Student Senate did numerous activities within the school and within the community. The senate sponsored the annual Christmas tree decorating contest between the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes. After the contest, the trees were donated to families who were less fortunate to have trees of their own. The senior class won the contest and received a money prize that went toward their senior trip. Student Senate also held elections including Homecoming Queen, Class Favorites, and Mr./Miss THS. These elections always went smoothly thanks to the efforts of the Student Senate. During the football season, the Student Senate exchanged gifts with each opposing team before every game. They donated money to different charity funds in the honor of the other team, thus teaching them how other senates operated. Toward the end of the school year in March, Student Senate sponsored a leadership conference. After the conference the Senate held a clothes drive to collect clothes which were donated to those who needed them.

Taylor High School in 1993 and 1994 was only as good as the people who worked to make it that way. The Student Senate did an exceptional job by sponsoring numerous events around the school that helped strengthen and better the school. Student Senate did a top notch job in 1993 and 1994, and they deserve a big thanks!

Printing up our year

The job of a school newspaper is to inform and entertain. This year's Cotton Boll staff did all of this and more. Due to stolen equipment at the beginning of the year, not as many issues were produced. But, this staff quickly got things in full gear and produced some of the best issues ever. This was the first year electronic or tabletop publishing was used. The program used was Page Maker. This enabled the students to very efficiently design their pages on computers.

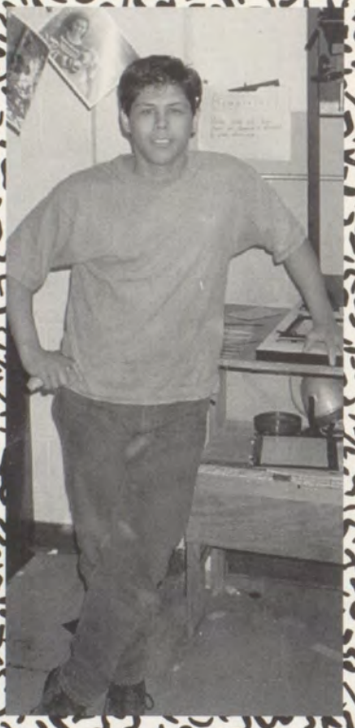

The staff consisted of twelve extremely dedicated journalists whose main goal was to make a difference. Three of these students, Kerry Gage, Mylissa Waltman, and Adrian Herrera, worked part-time for the Taylor Daily Press using their skills learned in Cotton Boll to contribute a positive aspect of Taylor High School to our community.

Preparing for the Future!

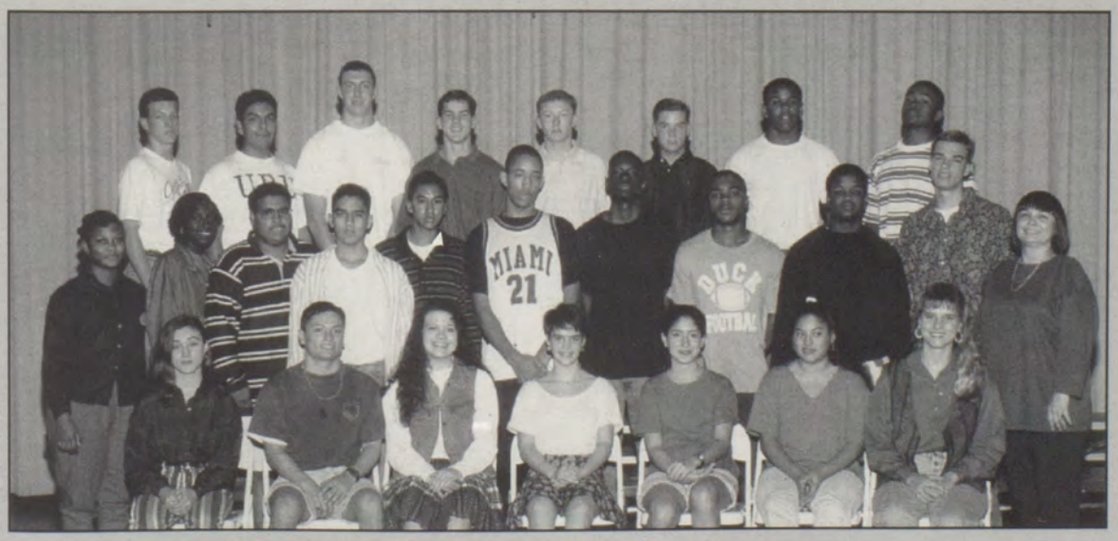

TAME, Texas Alliance for Minorities in Engineering, was represented by a strong willed group of students who took a special interest in Engineeering career opportunities. Through TAME students learned what beneficial and rewarding experiences the field of Engineering had in store for them. Throughout the year, the TAME club participated in several events. These events made the club a special one. A group of five girls along with the TAME club sponsor, Mrs. Kalbaugh, traveled to Texas A&M to participate in the Sorority of Women in Engineering Conference. These five girls were Christi Schneider, Heather Mott, Kristen Stiles, Tara Hays, and Heather Haverland. The two seniors , Christi Schneider and Heather Mott, received a $250 scholarship each at the conference. The conference explained the different types of disiplines that engineering offers. The TAME club also participated in a math and science competion. This competition was held in Austin and Mr. Didier chaperoned the students who attended.

Texas Alliance of Minorities in Engineering gave students that are minorities in Engineering a chance to learn what a successful career Engineering has become.

Sprechen sie Deutsch!

Fantastisch! The Taylor High School German Club was an exciting organization. During football season the German club sponsored the concession stand, and with that money we began to make our plans for the upcoming German Contest in spring.

It was a tradition during Homecoming that all ex's of Taylor High School join together to tour the old hallways with old classmates. This year the German Club planted a flower bed outside the school in honor of all the ex's of Taylor High School.

The German Club took very adventurous, as well as educational, field trips. This year German Club went to Six Flags during Christmas, and the first and seventh period German II classes went to San Marcos to the museum and to eat at Oma's. The German Club also did many fundraisers to help with various expenses that do come up in the course of the year. For example, the German Club sold candles from the Frederickburg Candle Factory and made money that helped us go on one of our many fieldtrips.

In the spring, the German Club had two contests. Our first one was Sprachfest in San Antonio at the University of Texas. Our second contest was Houstonfest at the University of Houston. If the participants won first through third place, they advanced to state competition. We entered in various categories such as: gingerbread house, prose selections, T-shirt design, filmstrip production and poster designs. Thanks to all the members and Mrs. Jackson who dedicated their time to make German Club a great success for this year and years to come....

Como LA Flor!

Ay, Ay, Ay! Como me duele! This tune by Seiena and many more could be heard from room 225. Every day for us was a new experience. It was a great way to bring us closer to the culture and history of Spanish that surrounds us. Foreign languages for some was just a trial to go through in order to graduate with the advanced or advanced with honors seal. But for others it was an opportunity to learn more about their heritage or even just to explore a new culture. Whatever the reason, it was definitely an interesting class to take. We had mini-fiestas, took walking trips to HEB and McDonalds and even had a Spring Jamboree. On April 21 we even took a trip to San Antonio. In addition to the class, the Spanish club was offered for the students to participate in various activities that involve the Spanish language and folklore, such as the annual Cinco De Mayo lunch held in the Spanish room for the Spanish students.

The gift of a Language

Go Puella! Go Puer! Latin Club was active everywhere. In the 1993-94 school year more students than ever joined this fun, learning experience. The officers were elected early in the school year to lead in the various activities.

These activities included raising money to buy unfortunate children Christmas presents. Latin students reached deep into their pockets to spread the Christmas spirit. The club raised enough money to give gifts to several children. The students enjoyed being together to wrap the gifts. The students learned that the time and money was well worth it when they heard of the child's joy! The Latin Club also raised money to give a scholarship to a student who well deserved it.

At the Latin Club Christmas party, students sang Latin Christmas carols and enjoyed refreshments. Students learned that they could have fun and learn about Latin rituals at the same time.

Everyone had tons of fun on the annual Six Flags field trip. The Latin Club members hung out and rode rides on a sunny Saturday in April. On the bus, the students sang Latin songs. Some of the songs you might remember are "Old MacDonald Had A Farm," "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf," and "Hokey Pokey."

Five Latin students stuck it out for three years. These dedicated students serve as role models for the first and second year students. In some cases these students tutored others with all of the difficult Latin endings.

Latin Club's size will continue to grow as will the exciting traditions. This organization was not only fun, but gave students the opportunity to help those less fortunate and in need.

Everyone Can Do a Little Something

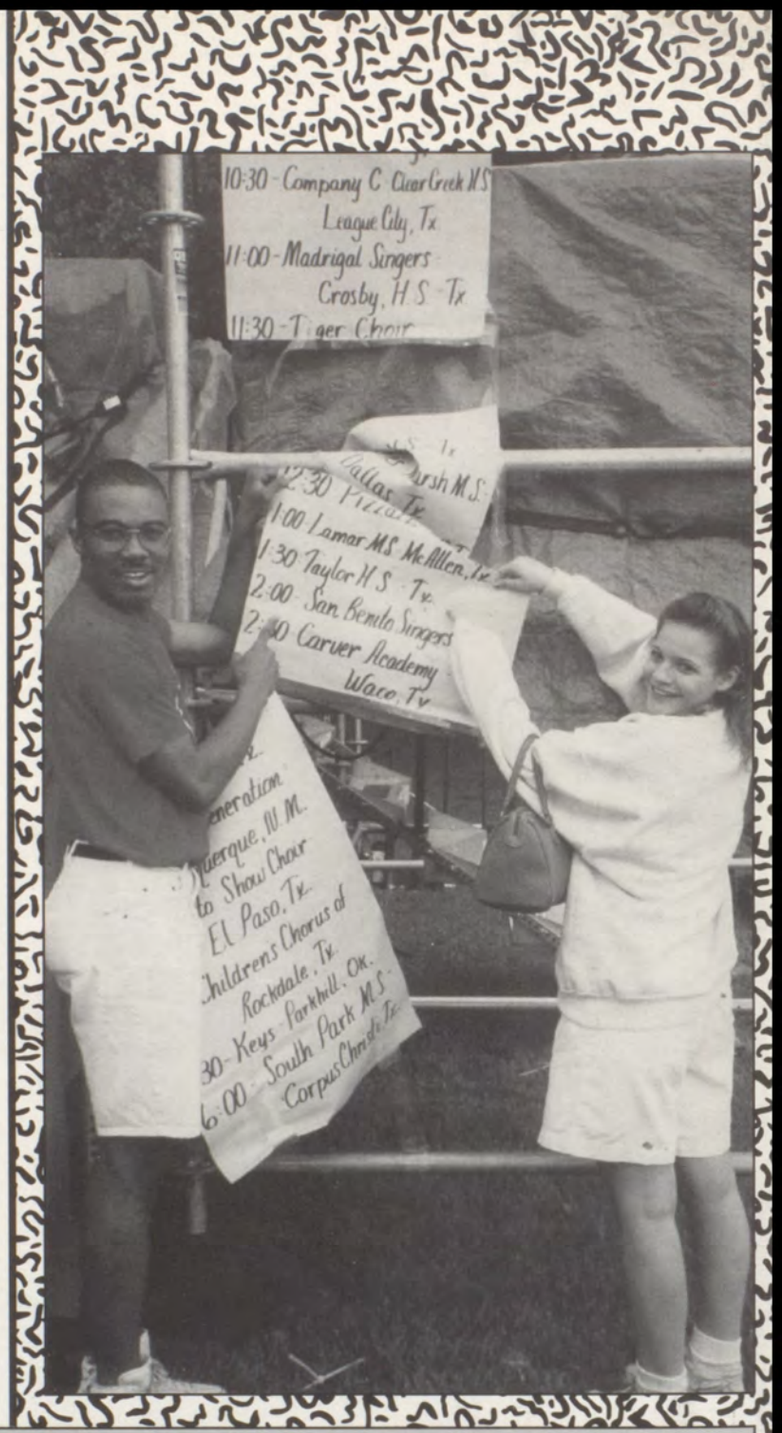

When a little something can be done, a lot can change, and the Taylor High School choirs did their share to make the smallest changes appear huge. The Mixed Choir and the Treble Choir faced the upcoming year with enthusiasm and determination.

The year would not have been complete without a few public appearnaces. The choir performed at football games and at self sponsored shows. We did what was in our power to make positive changes; we even had canned food drives for our local food pantry. We also went through the hassle of fundraisers to help us afford our end of the year trip.

As the fall activities ended we prepared for the hectic spring happenings that were in store.

Once again we had wonderful results at UIL. Above all the participants, Keithon Gipson managed to qualify for state for the third year in a row. When UIL was over, both choirs looked forward to the funniest part of being a member, the end of year trip.

This year the choir went to San Antonio to participate in "America Sings". It was a chance to meet choirs from all parts of Texas and a way to positively influence others through music. After performing we let loose and went to Fiesta Texas. The high rides and blazing sun brought out the best of us and we made the most of it while it lasted. Unfortunately all good things have to end, and as the year wrapped up, all we could talk about was the year to follow.

We Got the Beat!

The Mean Green Marching Machine tried our best to put out great performances to make our year an unforgettable one. We started the year with summer night practices, and when school started, we complained about the early morning fog, but somehow the fog did not stop us from keeping our pride. Once practices became abundant, football season rolled around the corner, and we put our show into practice in front of hundreds of spectators. We later went to Marching Contest where we scored a II. Soon after we prepared for Solo and Ensemble, which left us with a few state qualifiers. Concert season and UIL followed, leaving us with a big thumbs up. Although we worked hard during the marching and concert seasons, the band was not all work and no fun. At the annual Band Banquet, juniors and seniors had the most fun because the underclassmen become easy targets for jokes. But even regular class days for us were fun! The year was one that most definitely will never be forgotten. From the pumped up pep — rallies to the Band Booster dinners and from the Concert Band competition to the Jazz Band concerts, the Taylor High School Band let us show off our talent and remember the real meaning of team work. One thing was for sure: band offered memories that will not leave us any time soon. And in the process we proved to everyone that WE GOT THE BEAT!

Cheers and more!!!

What was cheerleading all about? Cheerleading was keeping up school spirit, working together as a team, being leaders, and a bunch of work and "stress"! To keep up school spirit, we held pep rallies every Friday morning; we had spirit walks through the halls during seventh period. We journeyed with our football teams to the football games to cheer. We always kept school spirit going. We attended basketball games and painted signs to hang up in the gym to pump the guys up! We were always needed to support our guys and girls. Cheerleading brought a lot of stress, too! We had to get so much done in a short time! You could say we were busy little "chics"! We painted yard signs for all the varsity football and girl basketball players. We planned pep rallies, and we attended community fundraisers, plus practiced everyday. Then we had to start getting ready for Nashville. The work never stopped coming, and on top of all that, we had to keep our grades up! When it was all said and done, our work was always rewarded greatly. Being leaders also meant working as a team, and to work as a team, we had to keep our attitudes in line. We all had different personalities which sometimes caused conflicting attiudes, but we got through it and always stayed postive. We always had to search for a place to practice. It really upset us, but we did it and kept on cheering until we pulled ahead! Throughout all the hardships, conflicts and stress, this was one of the most memorable years of our lives. This was by far one of the most victorious years for the cheerleaders!

The strife for success continued this year as the Internationally ranked JV and Varsity cheerleading squads attended the International Open Cheerleading Championships. Although we knew it was going to be hard to defend our title as tenth and eleventh in the nation, we did. This year it was extremely different. The JV squad competed against both large and small squads. They had thirty-two squads in their division, and they were the only small JV in attendence to place. This year our JV squad stepped up a step, brought home ninth place, and received the most spirited squad in all of their division. Greatly improving on last year's finish, the Varsity squad put Taylor on the map by bringing home first place — the National Champions of 1993! To top it off, our Varsity squad brought home the most spirited squad out of their division.

With an outstanding squad comes outstanding individuals. These individuals participated in the Team America competition. They were: Heather Haverland, Tracy Jezek, Karla Potts, Tessa Rhoades, Tammy Stiles, and Jennifer Winkler. Out of three-hundred seventy girls, seventy-five were chosen to compete in the finals. Five of these talented individuals came from our very own Taylor High School! Also our talented mascot, Justin Moldenhour, placed second in the nation. Stacey Urbanek also performed, receiving tremendous scores! This is definitely history to be written down for Taylor High School because this was the first year for our mascot to place!

Steppin' with Pride!!!

What exactly is a Stepper? A Stepper is a person who is choosen from a group of girls who all wish to become Steppers. After hearing our numbers called and receiving our carnation, the hard work really began. We perfected our first actual routine to be performed later at the Spring Show. When chosen to be a part of this group, we took on a lot of responsibilities. We had to learn the routines, be prompt and ready for parctice, and to top it off, keep our grades up. Steppers isn't just a one day a week thing; we had to practice everyday after school until five-thirty. But five-thirty never came fast enough for some of us, and for others it came too fast. We spent endless hours with one another, so we had to know how to get along with each other. We had to work together and get things accomplished as a group. But the hardest thing about Steppers was that you had to be able to take and give constructive criticism.

During the summer we attended camp which was a week long and took place at the high school. That week included learning the routines we would perform during the football season, learning how to march, and all of the other neccessary things Steppers need to know.

Resulting from the tedious practices together, we developed into something more than just "the Steppers"; we became a family — a family with one major goal in common- PERFECTION! As Steppers, we took pride in everything we did. The community and the student body's support and approval helped our performances be the best they could be.

Steppers isn't all smiles and spirit; it's a lot of hard work and stress. In the end all of the work pays off just to hear all the fans yelling for the award winning Taylor Hi-Steppers.

Throughout the school year, Steppers perform at football games, basketball games, and at pep rallies. But all of the hard work and perfecting pays off when contest comes around. This year the Hi-Steppers traveled to a new contest, which was held in San Antonio. The Steppers received superior ratings on all of their routines, received Sweepstakes for all of their routines, and Best in Category for their jazz routine. The officers also received a superior rating and received a trophy.

As tradition holds the Hi-Steppers put on a Spring Show which is held in April. This year's Spring Show was titled "Dancing Thru Time." The routines which were performed at contest are also performed at Spring Show. The group also adds their own routines such as: class routines, solos and duets, and the new and old officers.

Tropical Shangri-La

Prom 1994! Wow! I am afraid that if I said everything that needed to be said, there is no way that it would all fit in this little space. So, I am going to do the best I can! It all started before Christmas, when the prom theme was chosen. Tropical Shangri-La, it has a nice ring, don't you think? We knew from the start that crepe paper and balloons was not what we wanted at all. The more realistic look was what we had in mind. After Christmas we began the strenuous and time consuming effort to get it all together. You may think that's too soon to start decorations for a prom. Really and truly, it takes much longer than people may think. We worked three nights a week as well as on weekends many times! With the handful of junior students and parents, it actually came together pretty good. There's only so much you can do when there's not many people to work! And, of course the day we actually put the prom together some more faithful juniors came to help. Since we did not have school the Friday before prom, we did a great job. Most people would think that with so much time to prepare for the prom that we'd get it all finished! Well, believe it or not, even Saturday morning, finishing touches were made. The student center seemed to be a whole different place. We entered throught the doors of a huge hut. The winding path inside led up to a bridge. We looked down at the sparkling water while being surrounded by foliage from the jungle. Greeted by a native we entered into a Tropical Shangri-La. A huge, beautiful waterfall poured down the side of a rocky mountain. A treasure chest over flowing with jewels and riches sat half sunk into the sand. Three Bamboo huts lined the wall as interesting things waited inside. As you see, it was very easy to feel like you were in a totally different place.

Time to Move On

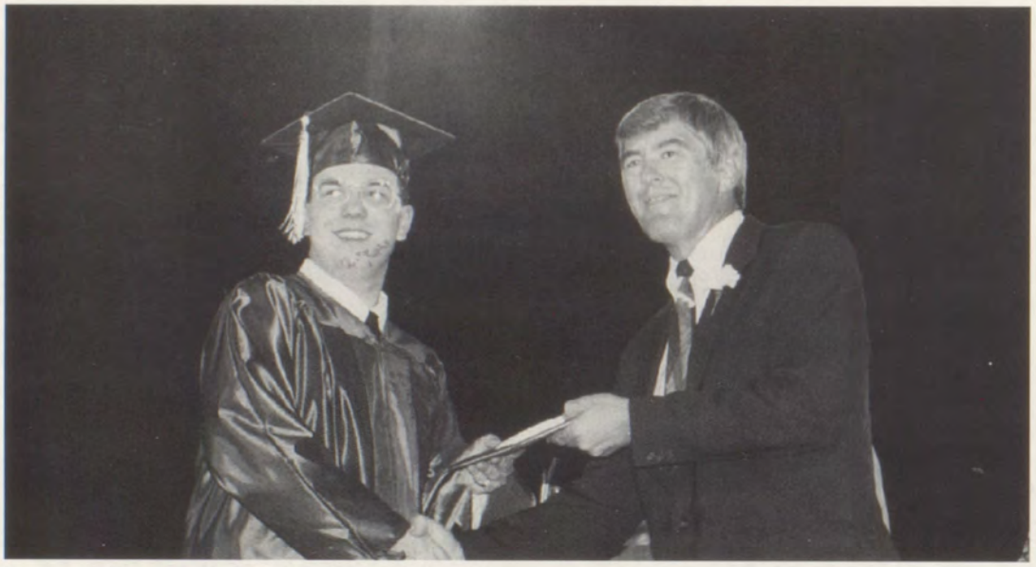

Take a deep breath. Wipe the tears out of your eyes so you can see. Grab with the left. Shake with the right. Turn and smile for a picture. Click!

Graduation? The moment we had been awaiting all our lives finally came, and then it was over in a heartbeat. As we walked along the track in a cap and gown we felt nervous because we knew all eyes were on us. As the procession of graduates neared the stands we stepped into a blur of flashbulbs, cheers, and proud smiles. Then there was a break in the fury as the speeches began.

Senior Class Pres. Ramon Santa Cruz gave a heartfelt welcome, reminiscing about childhood commenting at how quickly time passes between watching cartoons as a kid and graduation.

When Salutatorian Kimberly Schaefer began her speech, we immediately recognized the song she was quoting and realized just how perfectly "These Are Days" pertained to us and all the feelings we were experiencing as graduates. Her words caused us to admit that we felt sad at the thought that our high school years were over. We knew that we would miss our friends, but at the same time we were comforted by all our warm memories.

Finally Valedictorian Lori Grimm stepped up to the mike and gave us an invigorating speech insuring us of a bright future as long as we were true to ourselves. Then we were no longer nervous, or sad, or afraid, and when we approached the stand to receive the diploma, we were confident. Confident about our future and about the home we would always have at THS.

► Playing follow the leader. Amy Terrazas sets the pace for Luciana McDade, Robert McDonald....

▼ ◄ ◄ Making the silliest face possible so Mom will be really proud. Ramon Santa Cruz receives his diploma.
▼ ◄ "This little piece of paper makes it all worth it." Lisa Flint is overjoyed at obtaining her diploma.

◄ ◄ "These are days we'll remember . . ." Kimberly Schaefer recites her salutatory speech.
◄ "Yippee!!!" Caps are thrown after commencement.

We're here when you need us.

305 Mallard Lane • Taylor • 352-7611

We Love Our Middle Name.

Johns 'Community' Hospital gets its middle name from you. So you know how important you are to us. You've given us your trust and support through the years. We've provided you with 24-hour emergency service, as well as Surgery, Intensive/Cardiac Care, Laboratory, and Diagnostic Imaging Departments. We've also provided you with the Skilled Nursing and Intermediate Care Units, Home Health, Respiratory and Physical Therapy, and Community Education Classes. Together we keep each other healthy.

Stuff Most People Don't Read

(But obviously not you!)

The Mallard Staff occasionally resides at Taylor High School. Our address is 3101 N. Main, Taylor, TX 76574.

Taylor Publishing Company prints all these books. In Taylor, you ask? No such luck. It's only a name. All our books are printed in Dallas, about 400 to be exact. Every single one of our 192 pages are printed on 100-pound paper. And who could possibly make heads or tails of all our stuff? Super Jim Anderson! (Also the guy with the cool ties!)

Special thanks goes to Mr. Ruthven, Mrs. Potts (Especially for last minute basketball scores!), Mr. Bartosh, Kristen Holubec for Drama pictures, Mrs. Sutton (For having patience with us.), the rest of the faculty, and everyone we ran to asking, "Do you know who this person is?" for group pictures.

This year's staff included: Kristen ("I need how many more lines?") Stiles, Rebecca ("Didn't I sign out?") Gonzales, (Nauseatingly Cute) Bradley Hargis & Raelyn Jansky, Ramon ("You go ask Mrs. Sutton!") Santa Cruz, Jonathan ("No, you go ask Mrs. Sutton!") Gonzalez, Heather ("I'll help, again. ") Rhoades, Karla (End everything with an exclamation point!!!) Potts, Leslie ("I need my track scores.") Blackmon, Salina ("I'll be back") Rowland, Laura ("I'm going to the art room.") Larson, Mrs. (Photogenic 1994) Parsons, Kimberly ("More business transactions?") Schaefer, Amanda (To the Rescue) Schwartz, Heather (I've already done all my work.) Haverland, Tara (Jack of all trades) Hays. Jennifer (What do I do?) Balusek, Tessa (The Illustrious Copy Writer! (t.i.c.)) Rhoades. Alice (50,000 spreads in one deadline?) Heji, Melinda (I'm going with Rebecca) Garcia, Steven (Uh, uh. I already did what I have to) Wilson, Tammy (I've got to do the Academics all by myself?) Machu, Vanessa (I'll be so glad when I get out of here, dad gum it.) Mokry, Dana (I'll do it!) Carpenter and Amy (Cut Cuts) Terrazas.

The really stressed out people:

Mallard

Until you've been on the Mallard Staff, you can not adequately define the meaning of the word Stress. The stress you experience on staff rises to levels never touched before by research papers, book reports, or even Calculus quizzes. However, all this hustle and bustle, ranting and raving, and furious activity is well worth it when you have an end product like our yearbook. There is nothing more satisfying than seeing something you wrote or pictures you took end up in print. Years from now you can dust off your old Mallard, open it up and find "Layout and Copy by (Your Name Here)", and be proud that you had a hand in giving other people memories. Despite all the hard work, Mallard Staffers will testify that visions like that make everything well worth it.

This year's staff was one of the largest Mrs. Parsons had ever had to deal with. Although it made for quite an interesting time having twenty people fighting over the only grease pencil in a 100 mile radius, we also had a lot of fun. Just imagine how exciting things get during Cropper Wars!!! (We're not even going to begin to mention the Dark Room Saga!)

As we stated before, this year was a year of many breakthroughs. In keeping with that air, we not only had one of the largest staffs ever, but we sold a record number of yearbooks as well. Undoubtedly, this year's staff was very special (Not to mention Awesome, Crazy, Incredible . . .). We had a lot of fun creating this book and we hope you have just as much fun reading it!

The Editors

▲ The Mallard Staff: (Off to the side): Jonathan Gonzalez, Heather Rhoades, Jennifer Balusek, Karla Potts. Up-side-down: Ramon Santa Cruz, On the floor: Amy Terrazas, Tara Hays, Melinda Garcia. All jumbled together: Tammy Machu, Kristen Stiles, Steven Wilson, Leslie Blackmon, Amanda Schwartz, Tessa Rhoades, Alice Heji, Raelyn Jansky, Rebecca Gonzales, Dana Carpenter, Vanessa Mokry, Laura Larson, Heather Haverland, Bradley Hargis, Laura Rios.

◄ Spread Wars!!! Terrible Tessa Rhoades vs. Ambitious Amanda Schwartz. We don't care who wins just as long as Tessa doesn't get a chance to attack the copy.
▼ "That's not spelled right, is it?" Bradley and Raelyn work as a team. (Sorry about the cliche.)
◄ ▼ "Wow! That's the best print I've ever done." Melinda Garcia learns how to use darkroom equipment.
◄ ▼ ▼ Maybe a little bit too much fun? Tammy Machu, Tara Hays, and Kristen Stiles have a blast with quadpacks, grease pencils, and pica rulers.
▼ ▼ "Do I look like I have time to pose for a picture?" After being coaxed by the photographer Heather Rhoades looks up from her Mallard work for a quick pic.

◄ "Sometimes I wish we didn't sell so many yearbooks. Then I wouldn't have as much work to do." Business Manager Kimberly Schaefer adds up receipt books.
◄ ◄ "This Mallard stuff isn't as easy as it looks!" (Does it look easy?!?) Dana Carpenter lends her creative talents to helping create division pages.

Whew! What a year, huh? Didn't time just soar on by? We hope you enjoyed your trip through The Fourth Dimension. We know many of you were unsure about entering it, but now that it is time to leave, you probably don't want to go? What's the matter? Didn't you have enough time to do everything you wanted? Seriously though, we're sure many of you couldn't wait to leave the Fourth Dimension, especially you seniors!

Now you're probably expecting us to do the normal yearbook ending, right? Oh, you know what we're talking about! We mean the ending where we as the yearbook staff sum up the whole year in one long copy block just to kind of tie everything together.
Sorry, folks!

There is no way we could ever put an end to this year. You see a mere Mallard Staff is not powerful enough to overcome the mighty human heart, and that is what will keep this year alive in all of us forever. Although time will pass with each new experience: college, work, marriage, family . . . The memories we made this year are locked deep inside us for eternity.
